TWO CENTS

LED WITH A PRAYER

Vincent's Invocation the First Item in Sheldon's Paper.

TO SEEK FIRST KINGDOM OF GOD.

Main Purpose of the Paper, So to Influence Readers, Said the Leading Editorial—Theatrical News Barred—Leading Article on India's Famine.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 13.—The first issue of the Topeka Capital, came out this morning, under the editorial and business control of the Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, who is running the paper as he believes would Jesus.

In his editorial leader, Rev. Mr. Sheldon made this announcement:

"The main purpose of the paper will be to influence its readers to seek first the kingdom of God."

He declared that "The Capital during this time will be a newspaper," the word "news" being defined by Mr. Sheldon as anything in the way of current events that the public ought to know for its moral and spiritual development. The paper will be absolutely non-partisan and partisan political news will be given scant notice.

All editorial and important local matter will be signed by the writers. There will be no Sunday paper, but, instead, a Saturday evening paper suitable for Sunday reading. His leader concluded as follows:

"May God bless the use of this paper to the glory of His kingdom on earth."

The first item on the first page was a prayer written by Bishop John A. Vincent, of the Methodist Episcopal church. It was as follows:

"A morning prayer and resolution:

FREDERICK O. POPENOE.
(Who offered Mr. Sheldon the use of his newspaper for one week.)

"I will try this day to live a simple, sincere, serene life; repelling every thought of discontent, self-seeking and anxiety; cultivating magnanimity, self-control and the habit of silence; practising economy, cheerfulness and helpfulness."

"And, as I can not in my own strength do this, or even with a hope of success attempt it, I look to Thee O Lord, my Father, in Jesus Christ, my savior, and ask for the gift of the holy spirit."

Editor Sheldon went to the office about 8:30 o'clock Monday morning and was on duty until the paper went to press at about 3 o'clock this morning. At about 10 o'clock he had a conference with the correspondents for Eastern papers, and promised to meet them each evening at 7:30 o'clock and give out certain information concerning his work. At about 11 o'clock he had met the local force of the paper and gave out the assignments for the day.

A page was devoted to local news and the leading features in today's issue were reports of a temperance revival and an anti-cigarette meeting. Mr. Sheldon instructed the police reporter that in case of a murder or other crime to write a bare statement of the facts. If he had the space to spare, instead of filling up with the usual details he would go into a discussion of the causes leading up to the crime.

During the conference the sporting editor remarked that there would be a contest at the Y. M. C. A. rooms tonight.

"I think," said Mr. Sheldon, "that that is a good clean sport. You may print it."

The dramatic editor asked instructions about theatres.

"We shall not want anything of that kind," Mr. Sheldon said.

One page was reserved for telegraphic news which ordinarily occupies about three times that space. The Associated Press report was necessarily "blue penciled" with a vengeance.

The market reports were cut from four columns to one. All quotations on stocks and bonds, giving options and other matter involving transactions in futures, were consigned to the waste basket, and only the actual cash prices of grain, produce, etc., were quoted.

A notable feature of the paper was the method of handling advertisements. They were banished from the news and editorial pages and were bunched in places reserved for them. The censorship here was even more rigorous than in the news columns, and a large quantity of this class of matter was cut out, including all relating to patent medicines. The familiar corset advertisements of the magazines, unaccompanied by cuts, sought in vain for space. No retail advertisements from Kansas City or other out-of-town tradesmen were accepted. Mr. Sheldon holding that this would be an injustice to home merchants.

The $20 suit of clothes for $14.75 style of advertising was also barred.

The Capital appeared with a radical change in style and make-up. Practically the only feature that was familiar to its regular readers was the title headline.

The first page, for instance, ordinarily devoted exclusively to telegraph news, did not have a line of the current news of the day. Instead, the page was given up to discussions on what Mr. Sheldon considers the most important questions now before the world. There were four leading articles on this page, the first being devoted to the famine in India, under these headlines and the following introduction:

"Starving India."
"Fifty Million People Affected by the Famine."

"Conditions Growing Worse Instead of Better. The Urgent Need of Aid from Christian America."

"The Capital knows of no more important matter of news the world over this morning than the pitiable condition of famine-stricken India. We give the latest available information of the progress of the story in the following article."

Here follow statements from the Rev. J. E. Abbott, of the Bombay mission, and Lord Curzon, viceroy of India:

"Militarism" was discussed to the extent of about 1,200 words, the leading article under this heading being extracts from a pamphlet on militia by a Baltimore physician, Dr. Richard H. Thomas, who treated the war evil as a "disease epidemic in all latitudes." He discussed its causes, dangers and cure, and urged the religion of Christ as the only remedy.

The third first-page story was a column and a half symposium on the Kansas prohibitory law and was made up of brief statements from leading politicians and educators of the state, all maintaining that the law had proved a great success.

Months More of War Expected.

LONDON, March 13.—At the commencement of the debate in the house of commons on the army estimates, the parliamentary secretary for the war office, Mr. Wyndham, declared it would be rash at present to think that the number of months the British army would remain in South Africa was likely to be materially shortened. So the government estimates included what was believed to be enough money to continue the efforts at full pressure for another six months and at half pressure for six months thereafter.

Paisley Paid Over Money.

PITTSBURG, March 12.—Attorney John A. Murphy, counsel for S. T. Paisley, former superintendent of the bureau of highways and sewers of the department of public works, delivered to J. E. Lewis $4,000, which he declared Paisley said was the whole amount misappropriated by Paisley. The money was received without remark.

AMERICA THE AGENT

Kruger Has United States Ask England For Terms.

CHOATE TO PRESENT MESSAGE.

Our Government Careful to Declare It Did Not Assume Responsibility For the Initiative in Mediation—Some Move Admitted in Washington.

PARIS, March 13.—The Gaulois publishes the following from its London correspondent:

"According to good authority, President Kruger and President Steyn have not made a final proposal of peace, but have asked the British government, through the United States, the conditions it would accept for the opening of negotiations on the basis of the independence of the republics."

"President Kruger is alleged to have said he would never accept mediation, but the United States government, in transmitting this communication, took care to declare that it did not assume the responsibility for the initiative in mediation."

The London correspondent of The Matin says:

"I learn that United States Ambassador Choate received last evening a long and important cable from the United States government relative to South Africa, which he will communicate today to Lord Salisbury."

WASHINGTON, March 13.—There is reason to believe that the United States government is using its good offices to restore peace between Great Britain and the South African republics. This has not taken the shape of a proffer of mediation. That would be distinctly repugnant to Great Britain, and, according to the rule of international law which has, without exception, governed the state department in the past, could not be volunteered by us until it was known to be acceptable to both parties to the war.

But the United States might very properly serve as an intermediary to transmit an appeal for peace and the terms upon which peace can be secured. The United States has successfully served in this capacity in the past, notably in the termination of the China-Japanese war, and it is believed its good offices in this line are now being extended. If this belief is well founded, then Adelbert Hay, United States consul to Pretoria, has been the instrument for transmitting to the British government, through the double intervention of the department of state and Ambassador Choate, an application from Presidents Kruger and Steyn to be informed as to the terms upon which the war can be ended. The facts in the case will be fully developed in a day or two.

Lord Pauncefoot called at the state department and spent about half an hour with Secretary Hay. If he was made acquainted with the tenor of any communications relative to peace that may have come from Pretoria he gave no sign of the fact. The officials of the department also maintained a reserve respecting this subject that was impenetrable and all that could be obtained from them was an injunction to await the developments of the 24 hours. It is surmised from this that the department is restrained from discussing the subject by a regard for the diplomatic proprieties, and especially because of the requirement that the person to whom a note is addressed should be permitted to receive it before its substance is made public. In such case, presuming that Mr. Choate received a note Monday, it is probable that he would not be able to inform the state department that he had delivered it to Lord Salisbury before today.

THE HAGUE, March 13.—It was learned from a reliable source that President Kruger, through the consuls at Pretoria, appealed for the intervention of the great powers in the Transvaal war and has also appealed to the governments of Belgium, Holland and Switzerland.

DURBAN, March 13.—The Transvaal having appealed to Germany for mediation or intervention in the war with Great Britain, Germany replied that she declined to interfere, as she was in no way concerned in the conflict.

REBELS IN LUZON ACTIVE.

Tagalos Attacked Soldiers of the Sixteenth Regiment Near Aparri.

MANILA, March 13.—Advices received from Aparri, province of Cagayan, say that while Major Ward and a company of the Sixteenth regiment were leaving that place they were attacked at the landing on the river bank opposite the town.

A persistent fight followed, resulting in eight Americans, including Major Ward, being wounded. The natives in the Cagayan valley presumably instigated the attack.

The dispatches add that the Tagalos are harassing the Americans.

Councilmen Under Arrest.

SIAMOKIN, Pa., March 13.—Councilmen Thomas Holl, W. S. Zimmerman, Edward O. Zurn and ex-Councilmen Oscar J. The defendants waived a hearing and entered bail in the sum of $1,500 each for their appearance at the May term of court.

SET A DEATH TRAP

Angry Italian Accused of Firing a Tenement.

THE VICTIMS NUMBER FOURTEEN.

Mysterious Blaze Followed a Quarrel Over a Game of Cards in Newark, N. J.—Some Persons Escaped Almost Nude. Great Excitement.

NEW YORK, March 13.—Fourteen persons lost their lives, two persons were seriously injured and many others slightly burned in a fire in a tenement house in Newark, N. J. The firemen, after the flames had been subdued, took 13 bodies from the ruins and, while they were thus engaged, another victim of the fire died in the city hospital. One family was wiped out completely and of another only the father lives, and he is in the city hospital, where it is believed he will die.

The police are confident that the fire was of incendiary origin, and they have arrested Vito Credanza on suspicion.

The list of dead and injured follows:

THE KILLED.

Boldi, Nunziata, 45 years old, wife of Salvatore Boldi.

Boldi, Teresa, 7 years old, daughter of Salvatore Boldi.

Casillo, Angela, 25 years old, wife of Ugentio Casillo.

Casillo, Beninita, 4 years old, daughter of Ugentio Casillo.

Casillo, Antonio, 9 years old, son of Ugentio Casillo.

Casillo, Frank, 2½ years old, son of Ugentio Casillo.

Casillo, Carmina, 1 year old, daughter of Ugentio Casillo.

Palmisano, Antonio, 35 years old.

Palmisano, Sebastiana, wife of Antonio Palmisano.

Palmisano, Guiseppa, 7 years old, daughter of Antonio Palmisano.

Palmisano, Nunziata, 1 year old, daughter of Antonio Palmisano.

Rosso, Angelo, unmarried, died at City hospital of fractured skull.

Unidentified body of child, about 4 years old.

Seriously Injured.

Boldi, Salvatore, burned about the hands in escaping from the building.

Casillo, Ugentio, at City hospital, suffering from contusions sustained in jumping from a window.

There was a disorderly card game in one of the rooms that lasted well into the morning. Credanza was a participant and is said to have made violent threats against his fellow players. A few minutes before 5 o'clock every one in the building was awakened by the flames. They found the fire burning at the foot of the stairs leading from the first to the second stories. The hallway and the stairs were burning fiercely, cutting off the only egress from the upper floor, on which six families lived. It also cut off the escape by the door for those who lived in the rear part of the first floor. Those who could made for the windows. From these they leaped or dropped.

The whole neighborhood was awake in an instant, and from the burning building came agonized screams and calls for help. From the basement and ground floor the inmates of the building poured naked, or almost so. From the upper story men and women leaped to sidewalks. By the time the firemen reached the scene the building was wrapped in flames, and those who had not escaped were dead or doomed. They must have died within a few minutes, for the fire rushed through every room in the frail building within ten minutes.

The fire lasted only a few minutes. The search for the dead began within 20 minutes after the alarm sounded, so quickly was the fire conquered.

While the search was going on Rosso died at the city hospital, where he had been taken after the firemen arrived and found him lying on the sidewalk. He had leaped from the second story and his skull was crushed in.

One Man Killed and Others Injured.

HAZLETON, Pa., March 13.—By an explosion of dynamite, which a number men were attempting to thaw out, Frank Ward was killed and Foreman McGhen and several others were badly injured at the No. 3 shippings, near here.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

EAST END.

Two weeks ago the family of Louis Penny, colored, went away from the East End and up to the present time nothing has been heard of them. The family occupied a house on High street, owned by William Hayes, and when they left the suburb they said nothing to Hayes about their departure. Yesterday Hayes went to the house occupied by Penny and moved their goods to his stable. The disappearance of the family is causing no little talk in that part of the city and no one has the least idea where they went to.

Five days of prayer are to be observed in the Second M. E. church, commencing March 25 and lasting until April 1. The services will be in charge of Rev. George W. Oronit.

Elmer Stevenson, for several years an employee of the Laughlin China company, will leave that firm on Thursday and go to the Wallace & Chetwynd pottery, where he has taken a position as bench boss in the glaze kiln department. He will be succeeded at the Laughlin pottery by Robert Finley, now at the Thompson pottery.

The annual thank offering meeting of the Ladies' Missionary society of the Second United Presbyterian church will be held in the lecture room of the church next Thursday evening. The meeting is said to be one of the most interesting the society holds during the year.

During the services at the Second United Presbyterian church last Sunday morning 24 persons were admitted to membership. This is one of the largest classes that ever joined an East End church at one time.

John Arnold, who has been confined to his home on First Avenue for the past week, is able to be out.

Mrs. T. F. Anderson, who is ill at her home on Pennsylvania avenue with pneumonia, is improving.

Thomas Ramsay has taken a position at the sewer pipe works as night watchman. He will succeed Clement Harmon who has held that position for several years.

Joseph Johnson has resigned his position at the new Laughlin pottery and will go back to his old position at the brickyard next Monday.

The effects of Frank McBee have been received in the East End. Mrs. McBee is very ill and those who know her are of the opinion that she is in a dangerous condition. McBee is employed as a cask maker at the new Laughlin pottery.

At a meeting of the Young People's Society of the Second United Presbyterian church, held last evening, the following officers were elected to serve for one year: President, J. B. Elliott; vice president, Miss Mary White; secretary, Miss Bessie Hanley; treasurer, William Kinney. The society is in an excellent financial condition and its membership is steadily increasing.

Funeral of Joseph Barker.

The funeral services over the remains of Joseph Barker, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the parish building of St. Stephen's church. Rev. Edwin Weary officiating. The remains can be viewed this evening at the home of John Garner, on College street, from 7 to 10 o'clock, and also tomorrow morning.

—Clarence VanMeter, of the general freight offices of the Pennsylvania company at Pittsburgh, spent Sunday in the city visiting friends.

SOUTH SIDE.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mercer will be pleased to learn that a little son came to their home in Chester last evening.

The street railway company are hauling gravel from the gravel pit near Rock Spring to the power house. The gravel is being used in connection with some building that is being done at that place.

Miss Crill, pastor of the Free Methodist church, went to Hookstown yesterday, where she will remain during the week attending to some work in connection with the building of the new church at that place. A member of the Chester church stated yesterday that it was the intention to have the new building completed by the first of next June, and that the general quarterly meeting of this district would be held in the new church when it was completed. A number of people from Chester intend to attend the opening services.

Engineer McConnell, of the Pennsylvania railroad, was in Chester yesterday for the first time in several weeks. He said the extension would be completed within a few weeks, and that it would not be long before passenger trains would be running over the branch. McConnell has been doing extensive work in the vicinity of McKee's Rocks.

All the furnaces at the Chester rolling mill have been completed and are now ready to be fired. There are ten furnaces at the mill.

O. S. Marshall, of New Cumberland, was in Chester today looking after some business matters.

The large stacks at the Chester rolling mill are being painted. The work is proving to be very tedious.

J. O. Cunningham went to Smith's Ferry yesterday, where he purchased a driving horse.

Joseph Brunson was a Hookstown visitor yesterday.

An effort is being made to take the tools from the well on the Bucher farm, which became fast in the hole last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cunningham, of Chester, left at noon for McKee's Rocks, where they were called on account of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Harper, a sister of Mrs. Cunningham. They will remain at that place until after the funeral services.

REPLY OF CARNEGIE TO SUIT OF FRICK.

Denies Claim of $40,000,000 Profits—Advised Plaintiff to Resign, but Didn't Make Request.

PITTSBURG, March 13.—Attorneys Dalzell, Scott & Gordon and Clarence Burleigh, of Pittsburgh, and George Tucker Bispham and Richard C. Dale, of Philadelphia, filed the answer of the Carnegie Steel company, limited, to the suit of H. C. Frick over the stockholdings of the latter in the company. The answer does not include the replies of Henry Phipps, Jr., Henry M. Curry or of F. T. F. Lovejoy. It is expected that the answers of Mr. Curry and Mr. Phipps will follow in a few days.

Mr. Carnegie makes a complete denial of Mr. Frick's charges and declares the latter accepted the "ironclad agreement," of which he complains in his suit. Mr. Carnegie asserts that Frick was imperious, of uncontrollable temper, or else he did not try to control it; that he was continually chafing under his limited authority, as chairman of the board of managers.

The position is of an advisory character and President Schwab has the entire management of the business. Mr. Frick's time was largely employed in attention to his duties in connection with other enterprises in which he has been interested, and in various speculative schemes for placing the property of the association in the hands of promoters to be floated in marketable securities on the public.

Mr. Carnegie asserts that all times he has kept himself in close touch with the business.

It is stated that Mr. Carnegie holds 58 1/2 per cent of the capital; that some original members have disposed of their interests and new members admitted, and that all transfers have been made on the basis of the "book value," as prescribed in the "ironclad" agreement annexed to the contract under which Mr. Frick became a member of the company. It is moreover, the same system which enabled the plaintiff to require and pay for interests without the expenditure or any investment of any of his own funds.

In February, 1895, Mr. Frick owned 11 per cent of the capital, upon which, it is claimed in the answer, he was indebted to Mr. Carnegie $1,809,191.63 as a balance of the purchase price.

In compliance with his expressed desire, and to relieve plaintiff of the charge which the plaintiff then declared to be a burden upon him, Carnegie purchased said 5 per cent and gave the plaintiff credit for the book value as it then stood.

The transfer reduced Mr. Frick's interest to 6 per cent and the balance due for the purchase price was finally adjusted by Mr. Carnegie taking in payment $129,900 of H. C. Frick Coke company bonds at par and $191.83 in cash.

Mr. Carnegie says he did not ask Mr. Frick to resign, but that he advised him so to do to save him the humiliation of not being re-elected by his fellow partners, who would not vote for him.

It is claimed that the profits of the company are not such as claimed; that Mr. Carnegie made his estimate of this year's profits at $40,000,000 while lunching with his partners in November, 1899; that it was in jest and banter and an uncertain guess 14 months in advance; that the profits last year amounted to $21,000,000, but that only one-fourth was paid out in dividends, and the remainder was turned into the company.

It is claimed that the profits are simply the difference between the amount of sales and actual expenses of manufacture, and that millions have to be spent annually to maintain, enlarge and modernize the plants. It is stated that a large part of the profits has to be absorbed for these improvements.

It is denied that the company had assets on December 31, 1899, that it could transfer $250,000,000 or that Mr. Carnegie ever asserted that the assets were in excess of that sum.

ASTOUNDING POLITENESS.

The truck driver is proverbially profane, and when one is discovered who doesn't swear between syllables when his vehicle is jammed in a bunch of other trucks and blocked trolley cars you feel like taking off your hat to him. Down at Second and Chestnut streets one afternoon, when traffic was at its thickest and trucks and cars were lined along both thoroughfares, two truckmen had equal chances of making the crossing. One was coming down Chestnut and the other along Second street. Had they been ordinary truckmen each would have whipped up, and the chances are that a collision would have resulted. But these two were not ordinary truckmen. With Chesterfieldian grace one waved his arm to the other, inviting him to take precedence. "You first!" shouted the driver, whereupon a messenger boy who had witnessed the remarkable scene gasped and nearly swallowed his cigarette stump. "After you," was the next contribution to this remarkable dialogue. "Wouldn't that jar you?" muttered a motorman, who was standing clanging his bell for all he was worth.

The two truckmen continued to motion for each other to go ahead. "I insist!" shouted one. "Oh, no; I insist!" shouted the other. Finally a policeman interfered. "Say, one of yous ducks git a move on," he commanded. "This ain't no pink tea." The truckman coming down Chestnut street consented to cross the street, and traffic was gradually resumed.—Philadelphia Record.

WAS SHE RIGHT?

A certain woman, says the Wichita Eagle, desired the arrest of the saloon keeper who had been selling whisky to her drunken husband. Having conducted the officer to the saloon, she was told by him to pick out the proprietor. Seven men, all looking alike and dressed alike, were standing motionless around a whisky barrel, and she could not tell which was the one, but she stepped to the barrel and turned the spigot, and the liquor began to pour out on the floor. One of the men sprang out of the circle and turned the spigot off. "Arrest that man!" she said.

But was she right? Was it more likely to be the proprietor who would thus plead guilty and go to jail or some innocent man with an unquenchable thirst who was horrified at seeing the awful waste?

FOLLY OF EXTRAVAGANCE.

"Because I agree to undertake your defense," said the eminent criminal lawyer who had been called in, "you will have to be perfectly frank with me and tell me the whole truth. Did you embezzle the $20,000 you are accused of having taken?"

"Yes, sir," replied the accused man. "I'll not attempt to conceal the fact from you. I stole every cent of it."

"How much of it have you still?" "It's all gone but $10."

"Young man," said the eminent lawyer, buttoning his overcoat about him and putting on his gloves, "wouldn't ter plead guilty and throw yourself on the mercy of the court?"

"I'll do it if you say so, sir. What are you going to charge me for the advice?"

"Ten dollars."—Chicago Tribune.

RUSKIN'S GENEROSITY.

The late John Ruskin gave away a great deal of money during his life. Many years his annual income from his pen alone was $30,000, but he lived on less than a tenth of that amount. Indeed, he used to say that a gentleman ought to be able to live on $5 a day. If he could not, he deserved speedily to die.

A WAY OUT OF IT.

"A pretty lot of children you are for a minister to have!" exclaimed a West Side pastor whose children were misbehaving at the dinner table.

"Then why don't you change your business, papa?" asked 4-year-old Nellie.—Chicago News.

"I got back at the bookmakers all right today!"

"Win?"

"No; didn't bet."—Philadelphia North American.

THREE-CORNERED FIGHT

Each County to Have a Candidate for Congress.

THE MAHONING MEN WAITING

For a Chance to Profit by the Taylor-Baker Contest in Columbiana and Stark—Sixty-Two Delegates From Mahoning County Are Solid.

The congressional contest is becoming interesting. In addition to the two candidates already announced, R. W. Taylor, of Columbiana, and O. C. Baker, of Stark, Mahoning Republicans have now expressed their determination to run a home candidate.

Columbiana county primaries will be held two weeks hence—Saturday, March 24. Stark county primaries will be held a week later—Saturday, April 7.

Mahoning Republicans Saturday decided to hold the county primaries March 24, but to hold back the election of congressional delegates until Stark and Columbiana have voted and then it can be determined whether it will be advisable to support a candidate from Mahoning county.

The 62 Mahoning delegates will be selected at the county convention held Tuesday, April 10. Stark has 101 delegates and Columbiana 81.

The Youngstown Telegram, Republican, in reporting the matter says: The overwhelming sentiment in the committee was for a Mahoning county candidate for congress this year if Congressman Taylor loses in the other two counties, and that the best way to promote a Mahoning county man's chances is for a county convention to select a delegation which will vote 62 solid in Mahoning's interest every time.

SPLENDID HEALTH.

I. W. Shingleton Writes of Himself and His Son John at Gerona, P. I.

O. A. Shingleton has just received a letter from his brother, I. W. Shingleton, a member of Company A, Twelfth United States infantry, now stationed at Gerona, 82 miles from Manila. Private Shingleton enclosed a photograph of himself and his son John, who is serving with him in the same regiment. The picture is remarkably good, and shows both men to be in fine shape. Mr. Shingleton says John weighs 165 pounds and is the picture of health, while as for himself, he never felt better in his life. He is company cook and makes $21.60 a month, while John works for the lieutenant and makes, with extra, $20.60. Mr. Shingleton says they hardly know what day of the week it is half the time, except for inspection on Saturday and company drill every day but Saturday and Sunday. A good many of the boys, he says, get into the guard house through fondness for veno, a drink that makes them wild and is very easy to get. He adds: "We had to tie down one man yesterday."

TRANS-ATLANTIC TRAVELERS

Furnished Special Attendants by the Pennsylvania System.

The bureau of attendants for trans-Atlantic travelers established in Jersey City and New York City twenty years ago by the Pennsylvania system, has proven a great convenience to persons making European trips and to tourists arriving in America at that port. It will be particularly convenient for visitors to the Paris exposition because the departure docks of most of the Atlantic steamship lines are convenient to the new Jersey City passenger station of the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

This bureau consists of experienced agents whose duties are to meet passengers arriving in Jersey City and New York over the Pennsylvania lines and assist them in arranging for trans-

Atlantic trips via any of the steamship lines by conducting them to steamships and aiding in preparations for a trip abroad.

These agents will provide cabs operated by the Pennsylvania system and aid passengers with their baggage. They are fully posted on matters pertaining to steamships leaving New York, and arrangements can be made through them for procuring steamship tickets in advance.

They also meet incoming steamships to aid travelers in shaping details for continuing journeys from New York over the Pennsylvania lines by furnishing tickets, arranging for the transfer of baggage from steamship docks after it has been passed by customs inspectors, and having the same checked through to destination. They will reserve sleeping car accommodations and relieve persons of the foregoing details, making themselves useful as attendants and guides free of charge.

Further information on the subject may be obtained by addressing the nearest Pennsylvania lines ticket agent, or C. L. Kimball, assistant general passenger agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

INFIRMARY DIRECTOR.

John J. Cadwalader Is In Every Way Fitted For the Office.

The Columbiana Ledger is the home paper of Mr. John J. Cadwalader, now a candidate for the position of infirmary director, and the Ledger speaks of him in the following terms:

"Mr. Cadwalader is a highly respected farmer of Fairfield township. He is a man in every way fitted for the office to which he aspires, and should receive the unanimous support of Fairfield, his home township."

Mr. Cadwalader is now in our city, and he is rapidly making friends on every hand. His friends and acquaintances in East Liverpool speak of him in the warmest terms of praise, and assert that the duties of infirmary director will receive careful and conscientious consideration in case the voters of the county see fit to honor him with their ballots. Cast your vote for John J. Cadwalader.

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR.

Hundreds of East Liverpool Citizens Can Tell You All About It.

Home endorsement, the public expression of East Liverpool people should be evidence beyond dispute for every East Liverpool reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in far away places. Read the following:

Mr. Samuel Mayer, who is an employe of the Mc Nicol pottery, whose place of residence is 183 Bank street says: "My health was fairly good until my kidneys began to trouble me, causing my back to ache a good part of the time and to get sore and lame across the loins. The pain was often sharp and penetrating, especially when stooping or lifting, and I never got rid of the trouble until I procured Doan's kidney pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and tried them. When I had taken one box the soreness and pains in the back and other symptoms of kidney distress passed away."

Sold for 50 cents per box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

The engineer misunderstood the signals and there was a frightful railroad collision, with terrible loss of life. The whole country was appalled by that accident.

There is doubtless a far greater loss of life occurring every day, in various sections of the country, for which the only excuse is,—"the doctor didn't understand the symptoms." These cases are not the subjects of special inquest or the country would be aghast at the sacrifice of life to ignorance.

It has been the experience of Dr. R. V. Pierce and his staff of assistant physicians, that ninety-eight out of every hundred persons submitting to their treatment can be cured. People given up by the local physicians, weak, emaciated, with stubborn coughs and bleeding lungs have been absolutely cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All letters are held as strictly private and treated as sacredly confidential. Answers are mailed in plain envelopes without any printing on them.

"Last spring I was taken with severe pains in my chest, and was so weak I could hardly walk about the house," says Mrs. G. E. Kerr, of Fort Dodge, Webster Co., Iowa. "I tried several physicians and they told me I had consumption. I heard of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and I thought I would try some of it. Before I had taken the first bottle I was very much better; I took five bottles of it and have not yet had any return of the trouble."

First Negro Minstrels.

The first negro minstrel troupe appeared in the United States about 1845. They were real negroes, led by a man named Johnson, and the melody which gained them great applause was named "That Old Gray Goose." The words ran, "Oh, don't you see that old gray goose a-lookin' at the gander?" This was sung by the tenor voice, and the chorus ran in parts to the words "Where," "Here," "I hear," and then a ringing chorus. Another of their part songs was "Oh, Mamma, I Must Be Married to Mr. Punchinello," different voices singing "Who Mr. Punch?" "Who Mr. Nell?" "Who Mr. Lo?" "Who Mr. Punchinello?"

Jim Was Ahead.

"It's strange," sighed the trolley conductor, "how, when two boys start out with equal chances, one of them is bound to forge ahead while the other lags behind. There was Jim. Jim and I were fast friends as youths, but look at me now! Equal as our chances were, Jim is ahead!"

"What is he doing?" asked the passenger who had paid his fare.

"He's the motorman up front. Did I get your nickel?" Bang! Clatter! "Edmund place!" Bang! Clatter! Ting-a-ling! "Yes, sir; it's strange!"—Detroit Free Press.

The chamois is usually identified with Switzerland, but the animal is less common there than in any other country which it inhabits. Austria is the real home of the chamois, where they are most plentiful.

COMMON PLEAS JUDGE.

Attention is strongly attracted to the battle now on for this position. Ralph S. Ambler, of Canton, has a very strong following, and is daily adding to his strength in this vicinity. He is a genial, affable gentleman, and those who know him most intimately assert that he is eminently qualified and fitted for the judgeship. His opponent, Judge Isaac H. Taylor, is a foeman worthy of his steel, and there promises to be a battle royal between the contestants. The Republican party can justly be proud of its candidates for the berth of the common pleas judgeship.

FOR CONGRESS.

The Friends of C. C. Baker Are
 "Legion"—He Is Worthy
 of Them.

"EDITOR NEWS REVIEW:—I have been making a close canvass of the congressional situation, in so far as the city of East Liverpool is concerned; and, as a warm friend and advocate of Mr. C. C. Baker, I am delighted with my friend's chances for congressional honors. I may be an interested witness along this line, and may not be able to give an unprejudiced opinion; but I firmly believe that I can give about as clear judgment respecting the true condition of affairs as any man in the city. C. C. Baker has been making friends by the wholesale ever since his arrival in our midst. Why? Simply because he possesses the characteristics which win and hold friendship. He is a square man, worthy of the position to which he aspires, and capable of filling it to the satisfaction of his constituents. He is an 'approachable' man, clever, courteous and obliging, deeming it no hardship to go out of his way to assist a man in the hour of need or emergency. I know this to be a fact, and have had the fact demonstrated in my own life's history. If the voters of this district honor him with the nomination, he will demonstrate that they have placed their trust in one who will not fail them in any emergency. As I have already intimated in the heading of this article, his friends are 'legion,' and I sincerely hope that the 'legion' will be added to ere the 24th of March, and that my friend will receive such a vote in East Liverpool as to assure him that the people of this live town are proud to do him honor.

FRATERNAL MYSTIC CIRCLE

Very Pleasant Meeting Held
 Last Evening In Honor of
 Mr. Duckwitz.

The Fraternal Mystic circle had an exceedingly pleasant time last evening at the reception in Grand Army hall tendered to F. H. Duckwitz, of Philadelphia, supreme mystic ruler, successor to the late Judge P. C. Young, of Lisbon. A. H. Clark made the address of welcome which was responded to in a very neat and happy speech by Mr. Duckwitz. Hon. G. P. Ikert also made a charming address. W. J. McKinney acted as master of ceremonies. Short addresses were also delivered by other members. Choice refreshments were served, the pleasure of the occasion being added to by music on the graphophone in charge of Lewis Bros. The organization presented to Mr. Duckwitz a very handsome silver water pitcher. All reports indicate the circle is in first class condition from every standpoint.

Discussed the Grim Case.

Last night while the claims committee was in session Constable Powell served the members with subpoenas to appear in the Grim case. WILL CONTEST.

Settlement Reached in the Litigation Over the Estate of
 Mrs. Nace.

LISBON, March 13.—[Special]—Just as all arrangements had been made for the hearing of the contest over the will of Mrs. Nace, of this place, who died leaving an estate worth $40,000, yesterday afternoon the attorneys announced that a settlement had been agreed upon. The suit was brought by M. N. Hamilton and others against Georgiana Cook and other heirs of the late Abigail Nace. Forty some witnesses had been summoned. It was contended by some of the heirs that the will of Mrs. Nace, made in 1896, was not her last will; that another was made in 1898. The 1898 will could not be found yesterday, and it could not be proved that it was a valid will, so that the will of 1896 stands. Just what the settlement was has not been made public.

MAD AT EACH OTHER.

Angry Men Bid Up a $200 Property Until One Paid
 $375 For It.

LISBON, March 13.—[Special]—Sheriff Noragon yesterday sold lot 98 in Bayard, appraised at $190 and valued at $200, for $375. The sale was made in the case of Jacob A. Stambaugh vs. Martin E. Lamport. The big price secured is said to have been due to the fact that two of the bidders were mad at each other, and each was determined not to let the other get the lot.

In the case of Leah H. Boone vs. C. S. McIntyre and others, one and one-tenth acres in Salem near Hope cemetery, was sold by the sheriff for $380 to A. W. Tayler.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

"Jack and the Beanstalk," which will appear at the Grand next Wednesday evening, is one of the finest shows ever booked for an East Liverpool theater, and should be greeted by a packed house, as the show is well worth the money asked for the seats. The company is composed of 60 people, and the unrivaled spectacular extravaganza, after its remarkable career of this season, should prove an exceptional drawing card here. The company is headed by Edith Yerrington, and the chorus and ballets number over 50 people. Bright, brilliant music infuse each act, while the costumes are exquisite. There will be four violinists in the orchestra tomorrow night which will bring the orchestra up to 12 pieces.

Mr. Peach wants to know when the city began paying men time and a half for night work, and the matter will probably be investigated.

DECLINES

The Offer of the United States as a Mediator For Peace.

LONDON, March 13.—[Special]—Lord Salisbury has declined the good offices of the United States toward mediation with the Transvaal.

EXTRA POLICE.

IT IS SAID THE PRESENT FORCE WILL BE ENLARGED.

Former Councils Have Discussed the Matter, but Never Took Any Action.

A question that council will discuss after the new members are sworn in is that of extra policemen. The matter has been discussed by former councils, but nothing ever came of it. It is argued that the city is getting too large for the present force to thoroughly look after and at least eight officers or more are needed to give the citizens the proper service. The matter has come up with every administration for several years and it is said the rule will not be violated this year. A question that will figure somewhat in the matter is where will the mayor be able to find eight men who are five feet ten inches tall and weigh 160 pounds that are willing to serve on the force.

BRILLIANT OHIO MAN.

The Washington Post Speaks of Congressman R. W. Tayler's Splendid Abilities.

[From the Washington Post.]

Representative Tayler first came to the notice of Speaker Reed in the fifty-fourth congress, when he was serving his first term, in an argument as a member of one of the elections committees for a Democrat. The Ohioan's speech was forcible, displaying a large comprehension of the law and the facts, and not only helped in the seating of the Democrat, but resulted in his appointment at the next congress as chairman of an election committee.

In that congress, the Fifty-fifth, Mr. Tayler showed capacity for disposing of election contests promptly and equitably. There was no effort to crowd the evidence in favor of the Republican contestant or contestant, as the case might be. Tayler always presented his cases in such a manner that the house was willing to listen. General Henderson, knowing of his attainments as a lawyer, looked to him some time before this session began to investigate the law of the Roberts case, and he undertook the task with thoroughness.

Spiritual Hypochondria.

THE MAYOR WAS BUSY

He Held a Session of Court Last Night

AND TWO MINORS WERE FINED

On Charges of Intoxication, But Their Hearings Were Conducted in Executive Session—Horton Withdrew a Charge—Cox Was Arrested Again—One Lodger.

Officer White yesterday afternoon arrested Christopher Kraft, an 18 year old boy who lives in East End. Kraft was with Cooley Saturday night and the charge against him was that of intoxication. He was fined $9.60.

Robert Cooley, the 17 year old boy who was arrested for being drunk Saturday night, had a hearing before the mayor last night and plead guilty to the charge. He was fined $9.60. His hearing was held in executive session.

J. S. Miller had a hearing last night on a charge of being drunk Saturday night. He was fined $9.60.

William Horton yesterday afternoon withdrew the charge of assault and battery against Silas Hilton and the case was dropped. There was a large attendance at the mayor's court last night but the spectators were disappointed.

George Cox, who was released yesterday morning on a charge of intoxication got drunk last night and Officer Davidson found him asleep in Midway alley. He was aroused and told to go home but he failed to live up to his instructions and later was found asleep on Second street. This time he was run in. The mayor fined him $9.60 but remitted the fine provided Cox would leave the city at once. Cox said he would be glad to accept the terms, and departed for other fields.

Thomas Maher, who claims his home as Preble county this state, was an occupant of the city jail as a lodger. This morning he said he had money and was a lead pencil vender. The mayor told him he had had enough experience with lead pencil dealers, and advised Thomas to depart. Thomas said he was never in the city before last night, and would get out as soon as possible.

THE TRAIN SPOTTER.

AN OFFICIAL WHO IS WELL PAID BY THE RAILROADS.

The Work Which Is Performed by This Class of Detectives and the Qualities For Which It Calls—Methods of the Woman Spotter.

A little over three months ago there alighted from an Oakland ferryboat a demure little woman, who passed along with the crowd, with scarcely a glance to the right or left. Her petiteness attracted some attention and her modesty more, but no one who observed the air of confidence with which she made her way to the public carriage stand would have imagined that she was a stranger and that for the first time in her life she was visiting San Francisco.

Giving a few quiet directions and entering a cab, she was whirled away from the bustling throng and driven to a hotel. Later the register contained an unassuming "Miss Waller, Chicago." Her room was No. 11. Calling a private messenger, she dispatched a message to a firm of lawyers, and that evening, promptly at 8 o'clock, a prosperous looking, well dressed gentleman entered the hotel, glanced at the register, and, ignoring the clerk's question, "Do you want anything?" passed by the waiting elevator and walked up the stairs.

That was Tuesday evening. On Wednesday morning Miss Waller might have been seen boarding a Market street car bound for the ferry, where she purchased a train ticket and crossed to the mole. She returned late on Friday evening, and Saturday morning the same messenger took a sealed letter to the same lawyers, but this time there was no evening caller. Saturday evening she left town again for a few days, and these trips were continued until one day last week, when, by the merest chance, the object of her repeated outings was discovered. On this occasion she was the possessor of a ticket to a city near the Missouri river, and she smilingly confessed that she was bidding goodbye to San Francisco for some time to come.

As an illustration of the care which she must exercise in order to enhance her value to the big railway corporations in this country it is only necessary to state that in the ten years which she has devoted to the business of spotter, or, as she would probably prefer to have it called, private detective, she has doubtless made fewer friends than any one else in the country. And while she will not allow any one to get thoroughly acquainted with her, she does not make enemies. That would be ruinous.

It is an unwritten law of the railroads that every employee is open to suspicion until he has been proved guilty, and the people who take upon themselves the task of separating the two classes—those who are found guilty and those who are as yet merely under suspicion—are objects of the greatest contempt with the army of toilers who seek a living on the trains. To offset this unpopularity, however, they have the inducement of large financial returns. There is no ironbound rule governing the amount of money which they receive, but the more proficient of the class probably make from $2,500 to $3,000 a year.

At times a railroad will have an important case on its hand, and the services of a first class spotter will be invaluable to the company, and on such occasions, if successful, the financial returns increase wonderfully.

There is a much greater demand for this class of detectives in the east than there is here, and several reasons are given for this condition of affairs. In the first place, traffic being heavier, there are more trains run there, and more men are employed by the companies. Besides, that section is more thickly populated, and way trains are in many instances run hourly, if not oftener, but probably the truest cause for the increased dishonesty among railway conductors in the east is the low rate of salary which they receive.

There is a well defined belief among eastern men who travel extensively that any man who has reached that degree of prosperity where he can afford to wear creased trousers is hopelessly extravagant if he pay more than one-third fare after crossing the Mississippi river. I once heard a popular actor giving his reasons for this assertion in a resort on the Atlantic coast, and, after enlightening his audience with a dissertation on the almost utter worthlessness of money in the west, so far as railroad traveling was concerned, he continued:

"Take any train on any road west of Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago or St. Paul, and the rest is easy. Assume an air of indifference and smoke a cigar. If your conductor be seedy looking, have a beard, an old uniform with threadbare elbows and a hopeless expression on his face, pay your fare. He is an honest man. A thousand dollars wouldn't tempt him, and you are out a whole stack of dollars for getting on his train. Had you waited for the next one things would have been different. There you have a prosperous looking fellow, who spent his last hour before leaving time in a barber's chair and who, but for his uniform, would pass for a drummer or even a banker. He looks as well fed and as well groomed as a king, and you need have no fear that he will decline your invitation to divide the cost of your ride to your destination or at least to the end of his division."—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Parisian Way.

It must be hard for the untraveled Anglo-Saxon to grasp the idea that a poet can without loss of prestige recite his lines in a public cafe before a mixed audience. If such doubting souls could, however, be present at one of these nocturnal ambrosianes, they would quickly realize that the Latin temperament can throw a grace and childlike abandon around an act that would cause an Englishman or an American to appear supremely ridiculous. One's taste or sense of fitness is never shocked. It seems the most natural thing in the world to be sitting there with your glass of beer before you while some rising poet whose name ten years later may figure among the "Immortal Forty" recites to you his loves and his ambition or brings tears into your eyes with a description of some humble hero or martyr.—Eliot Gregory in Scribner's.

She Heard It.

The surplined choir had done its duty for the evening service. But all during the church hours there had been a peculiar sound outside as if a child were crying. In reality it was something the matter with the organ. It could be heard distinctly in the auditorium of the church. When the choir sang the recessional and marched slowly out of the church into the dressing rooms, one of the young ladies among the sopranos asked the woman who takes care of the robes:

"Did you hear that awful squeaking out here?"

"Yes, indeed, mum; I could almost understand the words."

And nothing more was said on the subject.—Detroit Free Press.

Soldiers Avoid the Bean.

"I have noticed," said the old soldier, "that there is one vegetable which the veterans of the civil war religiously avoid. That is the bean. It proved a very staying article, but after we had campaigned on it from Shiloh to Nashville and from Antietam to the Wilderness we were ready to cry 'Enough!' I understand it is used but sparingly in the kitchens of soldiers' homes. It will take another generation to rehabilitate this vegetable in the affection of the American people."—New York Mail and Express.

A Question of Grammar.

"Ain't you got any sense?" asked the 4-year-old daughter of the man who doesn't believe in corporal punishment. "Why, my dear," said the father reprovingly, "aren't you ashamed to talk to papa that way?"

"Excuse me, papa," she answered. "I meant to say isn't you got any sense?"—Indianapolis News.

Caused a Slight Family Jar.

"Maria, did you read about that Philadelphia woman who was cured of her mental troubles by fasting 45 days? I believe such a treatment would cure that unhappy temper of yours."

"Yes, it would make an angel of me. Is that what you would like, John Billings?"—Exchange.

Not a Hard Question.

They had a dispute, and they had agreed to leave it to the military expert.

"What bullet," they asked, "do you consider the deadliest?"

For several minutes he remained in a brown study. Then he looked up with the air of one who has settled the matter finally and definitely.

"The one that hits," he said.—Chicago Post.

STRIKING A MATCH.

Showing How Little Things May at Times Decide a Man's Fortune.

The truth of the saying that little things may oftentimes play an important part to men's affairs when the men least expect it was illustrated one day recently.

"See that young man over there," remarked an insurance friend of his, pointing to one of his clerks working away industriously at a desk in another room. "Well, he got his place in my office through the striking of a match, although he doesn't know it."

"I was standing at the entrance of this building about a month ago waiting for a friend to come down the elevator, when that young man approached me with a letter of recommendation and an application for employment. I had made it known a few days before that I needed another clerk, and he had heard of it. However, I had almost made up my mind to take on a young man who had been to see me the day before and was about to tell the last applicant so, when he pulled a match from one of his pockets to light a cigar he had been smoking, but which had gone out."

"Sorry, sir," he said, balancing himself on one foot, while he lifted the other so as to admit of his striking the match on the heel of his shoe. "Sorry, for I would like very much to work for you, and I think I would have made you a good clerk."

"The match striking incident made me think so too. Right at the young man's elbow was a great Italian marble column upon which were the marks showing where many matches had been struck by vandals too utterly indifferent to the rights of others to refrain from indelibly stamping their vandalism upon property to restore which would have cost hundreds of dollars. It would have been the most natural thing in the world for many a man to have scratched that match on the marble column, and the fact that this young man chose to use the heel of his shoe instead showed that he was thoughtful and conscientious, two very excellent traits. I was so impressed that I told him to come and see me, and the result of the visit was his securing the position. And his month in my office has shown that I made no mistake in sizing him up."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

EXCHANGED OVERCOATS.

At First by Accident and Then to Rectify the Error.

"Queer things have happened to me in Chicago," said the rubber goods man, "but perhaps the queerest of all was the way I lost and found my overcoat last winter. It was all the fault of the check boy. He gave me out what I took to be my coat as I was ready to go to the depot. It fitted me all right, and so did the gloves in the pocket. It was not until I boarded the train that I found some letters which proved that I had the wrong coat. I had a lower berth for Detroit. The upper berth passenger came in after a bit, and as he sat down he said:

"Well, I thought I would get out of Chicago this time without anything happening, but I'm disappointed. Through some hocus pocus or other I've lost my overcoat—that is, I've made an exchange with some one."

"Just my case," I replied.

"Where did you stop?"

"At the Auditorium."

"So did I."

"Well, he had my coat, and I had his," continued the rubber goods man, "and it took only a minute to effect the exchange. We were both bound for Detroit, both intended to put up at the same hotel and both had business with the same firm. It was a queer thing, taken all around, but, as I said at the beginning, there is no place like Chicago for surprises. A year ago I was hurrying along State street with the crowd when I ran plump into a man whom I had left for dead in Mexico three years before, and the first words he spoke was to tell me he was hard up and dun me for $5 I owed him!"—Washington Post.

A LUNATIC'S IMITATION.

It Lacked Finish and Got Himself and a Thief into Trouble.

A Paris correspondent tells an interesting story of how a shop thief was captured recently at the Bon Marche in circumstances that in all probability are unique. One of the private detectives in the pay of the establishment noticed a man who, with the most barefaced effrontery, was appropriating articles of every description. The individual indeed seemed to make little or no attempt to keep his operations secret. He simply walked from counter to counter and filled his pockets with whatever attracted his fancy.

In spite of the strangeness of the man's proceedings there was nothing to be done but to have him arrested, and he was given into custody. His indignation was extreme. He protested that it was most unjust that he should be interfered with in this way when other people who were behaving in exactly the same manner were left unmolested, and he pointed to a stout gentleman of most respectable appearance who he asserted had been laying his hands on all sorts of goods without resorting to the formality of paying for them.

The policeman to whom he had been given in charge had been accustomed to listening to unconvincing explanations and took his prisoner to the station. A few minutes later the stout gentleman, also in the care of a policeman, arrived at the same destination. The detective, whose curiosity had been aroused, had watched the personage and had found it to be true that he was perpetrating theft after theft with the utmost dexterity.

After a short investigation he was recognized to be an expert and notorious shoplifter, whereas the prisoner first arrested proved to be a lunatic but recently discharged from an asylum, whose mania took the form of imitating any person who might happen to strike him. The professional thief was beside himself with rage at what he described as the bad luck of getting into trouble through the vagaries of a madman.

GLASS BULB BOMBS.

Scared the Man Who Used Them, but Vanquished the Burglar.

"Of all the outlandish weapons ever employed in a fight," said a business man of the south side, "I think I brought the most fantastic on record into play one night last week. My family is away on a visit at present, and I am keeping bachelor hall out at the house. On the night to which I refer I was aroused at about 3 a. m. by a noise somewhere in the region of the dining room, and, thinking I had shut up the dog there, I jumped up very foolishly and came down stairs in my nightclothes without so much as a pocketknife.

"When I opened the dining room door, I was startled to see a big, rough looking man bending over the sideboard at the far end of the room, and after we had stood there en tableau for a moment the fellow made a rush at me. I leaped back into the hall and glared around for a weapon. On a table near by were a dozen incandescent light bulbs, which I had brought home to replace some that had burned out, and purely by instinct I grabbed one of them and threw it at the burglar. It hit the door casing close to his head and, to my amazement, exploded with a noise like a young lyddite shell.

"I suppose it was a still greater surprise to the other fellow, for he let out a yell and broke for the rear, followed by a rapid fire bombardment of 16 candle power incandescents, which I continued to chuck at him as long as he remained in range. They smashed against the furniture with a series of crashes that alarmed the whole neighborhood, and I have been gathering up fragments of broken glass ever since.

"The burglar must have thought I was chasing him with hand grenades. It was the first time I ever knew incandescents made such a row when they broke. An electrician tells me it is caused by the air rushing into the vacuum."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

His Useless Half Dime.

"It isn't safe to start out without a pocketful of pennies any more," remarked a member of the house the other day. "Yet I can remember that when I came down into this section of the country in army blue in 1863 a 5 cent piece was very small potatoes. I camped awhile out there in Virginia, and my headquarters were in the big plantation home. A son of the house and myself became good friends, although he was 5 and I nearly 35. One day in lieu of the candy which I had forgotten to bring him from the near by town I gave him a silver half dime. I had forgotten all about the incident, when some two weeks later he came into my room and, opening his hand, held out to me on his little pink palm the silver piece I had given him. 'Heah, Mr. Captain, you can have it back,' he said plaintively. 'It won't buy nuffin.'"—Washington Star.

Kaffirs Are Born Liars.

The Kaffir makes an interesting study. You cannot understand him all at once. It requires time, and a good deal of it. A new arrival thinks the Kaffir is a born prevaricator of the truth and has his reasons for so thinking.

Suppose you catch a "boy" committing a misdemeanor. Ask him what he has been doing, and he will look up in your face, a picture of innocence, and reply, "Ikona, baas"—a plump denial. Tell him you saw him do it, threaten him with punishment; he will still persist in maintaining his innocence. He will still plead ignorance of the misdeed and mutter in astonishment or fear, "Ikona, baas." In fact, he knows nothing whatever about it. If the offense be one that cannot be overlooked, you proceed to administer reproof—with the foot, if you are not particular and wish to be impressive. What does he do? If he is a raw "boy" and not used to it, he runs off with a terrified look on his face; if he is used to it, he retires precipitately with a satisfied smile, not necessarily because he has got the thrashing, but because he no longer has it to look forward to.

The only explanation for the systematic lying of the native in face of the most convincing proof is that the native mind is totally unable to form a conception of what we understand by truthfulness.—London Mail.

An "American" Duel.

During my residence in Heidelberg a lamentable and terrible affair took place that threw a profound gloom over the university and the entire town. Two German students, having quarreled, decided the earth was not large enough for both of them to live in and resorted to the diabolical practice called the "American duel."

In a darkened room the two young men drew lots, having sworn that he who drew the black ball would commit suicide. The unhappy loser went to his room and discharged a bullet into his breast, but missed his heart and lingered for several days on his deathbed. His parents were summoned by telegraph and besought him on their knees to disclose the name of his antagonist, but he steadfastly refused and died with the secret in his breast.

The students not only excused his conduct, but praised his courage, and when his remains were taken to the railway station to be transported to a distant city they accompanied the funeral cortege with torches and music. The students claimed he was not a suicide, for he was killed in an honorable duel, and they maintained that his opponent was not accessory to his death because he shot himself. I had many arguments with them and never could convince them of their extraordinary tergiversation.—Science.

Fooled the Crowd.

Some people will go to great trouble and expense to perpetrate a joke. The other day two well known society men hired a closed carriage and decorated it with bows of white ribbon and flowers and other paraphernalia belonging to a well appointed wedding.

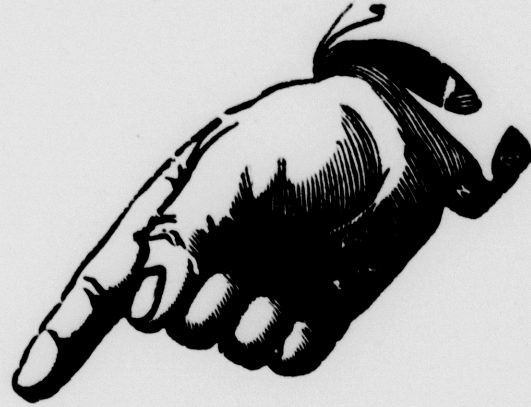

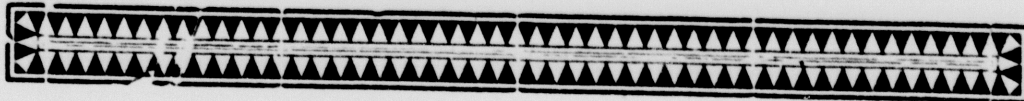

On each side was hung a placard announcing that the occupants were just married.

It attracted great attention, and when it pulled up in front of the Galt House a few days ago a large crowd had congregated to see the happy bride and groom alight. The driver slowly got down from his seat beside the door.

He opened it deliberately, and when he swung the door open the curious crowd surged forward. There was no bride and no groom inside, but instead a big placard bearing in great black letters the single word, "Rubber."

For a little while the driver had the joke to himself, but soon the crowd realized the neat swindle, and all enjoyed the episode hugely.—Louisville Dispatch.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. JOHN S. WISE EXCLUDED.

Speaker Ordered Him Sent From the House—Another Democrat Unseated.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—For the second time within a week a Democrat was unseated by the house and a Republican seated in his place. R. A. Wise was given the seat hitherto occupied by W. A. Young from the Second Virginia district. Previous to taking the vote John S. Wise, of New York, who was formerly a member of the house from Virginia, and who is a brother of R. A. Wise and his attorney in the case, was excluded from the hall by Speaker Henderson on the protest of the Democrats that he was abusing the privileges of the floor to which he was entitled by the rules, by interfering with the debate upon the case. The votes were exceedingly close.

While none of the Republicans voted with the Democrats enough were absent and unpaired to reduce the Republican majority upon the final vote from 16, the normal majority, to 7.

An urgent deficiency bill carrying $1,439,580 was passed.

Eighty-six private pension bills were passed.

The Stag Beetle.

As you walk by the hedgeside a strange noise suddenly arrests your attention. It is the buzz of an insect, but loud enough to startle you. It might be mistaken for the reeling of a night jar, but it is perhaps more like the jarring hum of a fast driven motor car.

The reason of the noise is that the beetle has with great pains climbed up a certain height from the ground, and in order to ascertain whether he has got far enough, he erects himself on his stand, lifts his wing cases, shakes out his wings and begins to agitate them violently, turning this way and that to make sure that he has a clear space.

If he then attempts to fly—it is one of his common blunders—he instantly strikes against some branch or cluster of leaves and is thrown down. The tumble does not hurt him in the least, but so greatly astonishes him that he remains motionless a good while; then, recovering his senses, he begins to ascend again. At length, after a good many accidents and adventures by the way, he gets on to the topmost twig, and, after some buzzing to get up steam, launches himself heavily on the air and goes away in grand style—Longman's.

Looking Out For Alma Mater.

No doubt the casual observer has often noticed how unceasingly bequests flow into the treasuries of certain universities, but he may not know that the alumni of those institutions, particularly the lawyers, have it always on their minds to secure, or at least to suggest, bequests.

One of these men, a prominent corporation lawyer of this city, was speaking of the custom the other day. He explained that a lawyer and his client usually sit down to talk over the general subject of a will. If the client has more than enough money to meet the actual needs of his family, he commonly says something of charitable or educational institutions, generally in a vague way, which makes it quite natural for his lawyer to suggest as a definite object his own alma mater. The lawyer referred to had himself secured several bequests, one of them for the sum of $500,000. "But," said he, smiling, "a young lawyer in my office has just cut me out of $100,000, which he put in a will for his own alma mater. It was a very good stroke on his part, the more so because our respective universities have been bitter athletic rivals for years."—New York Mail and Express.

Speculators Apparently Convinced That New Currency Law Will Help Money Market.

NEW YORK, March 13.—The stock market was unmistakably strong throughout, on Monday. The demonstrated indifference of the market on Saturday to the swift depletion of surplus reserves of New York banks took the mainstay of the bears from beneath them. The demand from short interest was a factor in the advance in prices, especially in the industrials, which have recently been under pressure. There were several elements of positive strength in the market, also; but the largest part of the buying was undoubtedly due to the effort of the professional element among the speculators to discount the effect of the currency bill. Not only the smaller class of professionals, who have recently had the market to themselves, but operators of larger mould, gave evidence of their interest in the market.

The demands made by the increased activity of the stock market upon the money market was evinced in a flurry in the call loan rate to 6 per cent. The speculators paid no attention to this admonitory symptom, apparently convinced that the end of the money market troubles was at hand with the enactment of the new currency law, which is to be sent to the president today. There were occasional periods of dullness in the market, apparently with a view to testing it. The quick subsidence of activity without any reaction in prices, and the firmness of the resistance to decline, confirmed the confidence of the bulls and started prices upward again. The closing was quite active and strong at near the top level.

The bond market was active and strong throughout. Total sales, par value, \$2,205,000. United States 3's coupon and new 4's registered declined $\frac{1}{2}$, coupon, $\frac{3}{8}$, and the old 4's $\frac{1}{4}$ in the bid price.

Chicago Grain Market.

CHICAGO, March 13.—Sensationally strong and active, the result not only of particularly bullish statistics Monday, but of a sort of spontaneous realization of the security of the bull position based on the career of the market for months; corn lent a bull influence to the other markets Monday. Corn closed $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ over Saturday, May wheat $\frac{3}{8}$ ¢ higher, May oats $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ improved and provisions from $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ better for lard to $\frac{2}{3}$ ¢ for pork.

ADVANCE OF LORD ROBERTS

May Reach Bloemfontein Tomorrow Danger of French Invading England.

LONDON, March 13.—Spenser Wilkin son, reviewing the military situation in The Morning Post, said in part:

"It may be confidently expected that Lord Roberts will reach Bloemfontein or the railway near there by tomorrow (Wednesday) or Thursday.

"With regard to the alarm expressed in some quarters as to French invasion based on the news that the French are manœuvring four army corps this year near the northwestern coast of France such a possibility, no doubt always exists. The great thing is to have our fleet in the right place.

"Certainly there is no reason for apprehension."

Roberts has again turned the Boer position and with his entire force, which must comprise close on 40,000 men, is now at Venters Vlei, 12 miles southwest of Bloemfontein. The Boers, who are said to have numbered 12,000, with 18 guns, were entrenched along the main road to the Free State capital, but the British, by keeping to the south and following Kaal Spruit instead of the Modder have flanked them.

THE EVENING NEWS REVIEW.

15TH YEAR. NO. 231.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., TUESDAY, MARCH 13, 1900.

TWO CENTS

LED WITH A PRAYER

Vincent's Invocation the First Item in Sheldon's Paper.

TO SEEK FIRST KINGDOM OF GOD.

Main Purpose of the Paper, So to Influence Readers, Said the Leading Editorial—Theatrical News Barred—Leading Article on India's Famine.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 13.—The first issue of the Topeka Capital, came out this morning, under the editorial and business control of the Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, who is running the paper as he believes would Jesus.

In his editorial leader, Rev. Mr. Sheldon made this announcement:

"The main purpose of the paper will be to influence its readers to seek first the kingdom of God."

He declared that "The Capital during this time will be a newspaper," the word "news" being defined by Mr. Sheldon as anything in the way of current events that the public ought to know for its moral and spiritual development. The paper will be absolutely non-partisan and partisan political news will be given scant notice.

All editorial and important local matter will be signed by the writers. There will be no Sunday paper, but, instead, a Saturday evening paper suitable for Sunday reading. His leader concluded as follows:

"May God bless the use of this paper to the glory of His kingdom on earth."

The first item on the first page was a prayer written by Bishop John A. Vincent, of the Methodist Episcopal church. It was as follows:

"A morning prayer and resolution:

FREDERICK O. POPENOE.

(Who offered Mr. Sheldon the use of his newspaper for one week.)

"I will try this day to live a simple, sincere, serene life; repelling every thought of discontent, self-seeking and anxiety; cultivating magnanimity, self-control and the habit of silence; practising economy, cheerfulness and helpfulness."

"And, as I can not in my own strength do this, or even with a hope of success attempt it, I look to Thee O Lord, my Father, in Jesus Christ, my savior, and ask for the gift of the holy spirit."

Editor Sheldon went to the office about 8:30 o'clock Monday morning and was on duty until the paper went to press at about 3 o'clock this morning. At about 10 o'clock he had a conference with the correspondents for Eastern papers, and promised to meet them each evening at 7:30 o'clock and give out certain information concerning his work. At about 11 o'clock he had met the local force of the paper and gave out the assignments for the day.

A page was devoted to local news and the leading features in today's issue were reports of a temperance revival and an anti-cigarette meeting. Mr. Sheldon instructed the police reporter that in case of a murder or other crime to write a bare statement of the facts. If he had the space to spare, instead of filling up with the usual details he would go into a discussion of the causes leading up to the crime.

During the conference the sporting editor remarked that there would be a contest at the Y. M. C. A. rooms to-night.

"I think," said Mr. Sheldon, "that that is a good clean sport. You may print it."

The dramatic editor asked instructions about theatres.

"We shall not want anything of that kind," Mr. Sheldon said.

One page was reserved for telegraphic news which ordinarily occupies about three times that space. The Associated Press report was necessarily "blue penciled" with a vengeance.

The market reports were cut from four columns to one. All quotations on stocks and bonds, giving options and other matter involving transactions in futures, were consigned to the waste basket, and only the actual cash prices of grain, produce, etc., were quoted.

A notable feature of the paper was the method of handling advertisements. They were banished from the news and editorial pages and were bunched in places reserved for them. The censorship here was even more rigorous than in the news columns, and a large quantity of this class of matter was cut out, including all relating to patent medicines. The familiar corset advertisements of the magazines, unaccompanied by cuts, sought in vain for space. No retail advertisements from Kansas City or other out-of-town tradesmen were accepted. Mr. Sheldon holding that this would be an injustice to home merchants.

The $20 suit of clothes for $14.75 style of advertising was also barred.

The Capital appeared with a radical change in style and make-up. Practically the only feature that was familiar to its regular readers was the title headline.

The first page, for instance, ordinarily devoted exclusively to telegraph news, did not have a line of the current news of the day. Instead, the page was given up to discussions on what Mr. Sheldon considers the most important questions now before the world. There were four leading articles on this page, the first being devoted to the famine in India, under these headlines and the following introduction:

"Starving India."

"Fifty Million People Affected by the Famine."

"Conditions Growing Worse Instead of Better. The Urgent Need of Aid from Christian America."

"The Capital knows of no more important matter of news the world over this morning than the pitiable condition of famine-stricken India. We give the latest available information of the progress of the story in the following article."

Here follow statements from the Rev. J. E. Abbott, of the Bombay mission, and Lord Curzon, viceroy of India:

"Militarism was discussed to the extent of about 1,200 words, the leading article under this heading being extracts from a pamphlet on militarism by a Baltimore physician, Dr. Richard H. Thomas, who treated the war evil as a 'disease epidemic in all latitudes.' He discussed its causes, dangers and cure, and urged the religion of Christ as the only remedy."

The third first-page story was a column and a half symposium on the Kansas prohibitory law and was made up of brief statements from leading politicians and educators of the state, all maintaining that the law had proved a great success.

Months More of War Expected.

LONDON, March 13.—At the commencement of the debate in the house of commons on the army estimates, the parliamentary secretary for the war office, Mr. Wyndham, declared it would be rash at present to think that the number of months the British army would remain in South Africa was likely to be materially shortened. So the government estimates included what was believed to be enough money to continue the efforts at full pressure for another six months and at half pressure for six months thereafter.

Paisley Paid Over Money.

PITTSBURGH, March 12.—Attorney John A. Murphy, counsel for S. T. Paisley, former superintendent of the bureau of highways and sewers of the department of public works, delivered to J. E. Lewis $4,000, which he declared Paisley said was the whole amount misappropriated by Paisley. The money was received without remark.

PARIS, March 13.—The Gaulois publishes the following from its London correspondent:

"According to good authority, President Kruger and President Steyn have not made a final proposal of peace, but have asked the British government, through the United States, the conditions it would accept for the opening of negotiations on the basis of the independence of the republics."

"President Kruger is alleged to have said he would never accept mediation, but the United States government, in transmitting this communication, took care to declare that it did not assume the responsibility for the initiative in mediation."

The London correspondent of The Matin says:

"I learn that United States Ambassador Choate received last evening a long and important cable from the United States government relative to South Africa, which he will communicate today to Lord Salisbury."

WASHINGTON, March 13.—There is reason to believe that the United States government is using its good offices to restore peace between Great Britain and the South African republics. This has not taken the shape of a proffer of mediation. That would be distinctly repugnant to Great Britain, and, according to the rule of international law which has, without exception, governed the state department in the past, could not be volunteered by us until it was known to be acceptable to both parties to the war.

But the United States might very properly serve as an intermediary to transmit an appeal for peace and the terms upon which peace can be secured. The United States has successfully served in this capacity in the past, notably in the termination of the China-Japanese war, and it is believed its good offices in this line are now being extended. If this belief is well founded, then Adelbert Hay, United States consul to Pretoria, has been the instrument for transmitting to the British government, through the double intervention of the department of state and Ambassador Choate, an application from Presidents Kruger and Steyn to be informed as to the terms upon which the war can be ended. The facts in the case will be fully developed in a day or two.

Lord Pauncefoot called at the state department and spent about half an hour with Secretary Hay. If he was made acquainted with the tenor of any communications relative to peace that may have come from Pretoria he gave no sign of the fact. The officials of the department also maintained a reserve respecting this subject that was impenetrable and all that could be obtained from them was an injunction to await the developments of the 24 hours. It is surmised from this that the department is restrained from discussing the subject by a regard for the diplomatic proprieties, and especially because of the requirement that the person to whom a note is addressed should be permitted to receive it before its substance is made public. In such case, presuming that Mr. Choate received a note Monday, it is probable that he would not be able to inform the state department that he had delivered it to Lord Salisbury before today.

THE HAGUE, March 13.—It was learned from a reliable source that President Kruger, through the consuls at Pretoria, appealed for the intervention of the great powers in the Transvaal war and has also appealed to the governments of Belgium, Holland and Switzerland.

DURBAN, March 13.—The Transvaal having appealed to Germany for mediation or intervention in the war with Great Britain, Germany replied that she declined to interfere, as she was in no way concerned in the conflict.

THE VICTIMS NUMBER FOURTEEN.

Mysterious Blaze Followed a Quarrel Over a Game of Cards in Newark, N. J.—Some Persons Escaped Almost Nude. Great Excitement.

NEW YORK, March 13.—Fourteen persons lost their lives, two persons were seriously injured and many others slightly burned in a fire in a tenement house in Newark, N. J. The firemen, after the flames had been subdued, took 13 bodies from the ruins and, while they were thus engaged, another victim of the fire died in the city hospital. One family was wiped out completely and of another only the father lives, and he is in the city hospital, where it is believed he will die.

The police are confident that the fire was of incendiary origin, and they have arrested Vito Credanza on suspicion.

The list of dead and injured follows:

Casillo, Antonio, 9 years old, son of Uggieno Casillo.

Casillo, Frank, 2½ years old, son of Uggieno Casillo.

Rosso, Angelo, unmarried, died at City hospital of fractured skull.

Unidentified body of child, about 4 years old.

Seriously Injured.

Boldi, Salvatore, burned about the hands in escaping from the building.

Casillo, Uggieno, at City hospital, suffering from contusions sustained in jumping from a window.

There was a disorderly card game in one of the rooms that lasted well into the morning. Credanza was a participant and is said to have made violent threats against his fellow players. A few minutes before 5 o'clock every one in the building was awakened by the flames. They found the fire burning at the foot of the stairs leading from the first to the second stories. The hallway and the stairs were burning fiercely, cutting off the only egress from the upper floor, on which six families lived. It also cut off the escape by the door for those who lived in the rear part of the first floor. Those who could made for the windows. From these they leaped or dropped.

The whole neighborhood was awake in an instant, and from the burning building came agonized screams and calls for help. From the basement and ground floor the inmates of the building poured naked, or almost so. From the upper story men and women leaped to sidewalks. By the time the firemen reached the scene the building was wrapped in flames, and those who had not escaped were dead or doomed. They must have died within a few minutes, for the fire rushed through every room in the frail building within ten minutes.

The fire lasted only a few minutes. The search for the dead began within 20 minutes after the alarm sounded, so quickly was the fire conquered.

While the search was going on Rosso died at the city hospital, where he had been taken after the firemen arrived and found him lying on the sidewalk. He had leaped from the second story and his skull was crushed in.

THE EVENING NEWS REVIEW.

15TH YEAR. NO. 231.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., TUESDAY, MARCH 13, 1900.

TWO CENTS

LED WITH A PRAYER

Vincent's Invocation the First Item In Sheldon's Paper.

TO SEEK FIRST KINGDOM OF GOD.

Main Purpose of the Paper, So to Influence Readers, Said the Leading Editorial—Theatrical News Barred—Leading Article on India's Famine.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 13.—The first issue of the Topeka Capital, came out this morning, under the editorial and business control of the Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, who is running the paper as he believes would Jesus.

In his editorial leader, Rev. Mr. Sheldon made this announcement:

"The main purpose of the paper will be to influence its readers to seek first the kingdom of God."

He declared that "The Capital during this time will be a newspaper," the word "news" being defined by Mr. Sheldon as anything in the way of current events that the public ought to know for its moral and spiritual development. The paper will be absolutely non-partisan and partisan political news will be given scant notice.

All editorial and important local matter will be signed by the writers. There will be no Sunday paper, but, instead, a Saturday evening paper suitable for Sunday reading. His leader concluded as follows:

"May God bless the use of this paper to the glory of His kingdom on earth."

The first item on the first page was a prayer written by Bishop John A. Vincent, of the Methodist Episcopal church. It was as follows:

"A morning prayer and resolution:

FREDERICK O. POPENOE.
[Who offered Mr. Sheldon the use of his newspaper for one week.]

"I will try this day to live a simple, sincere, serene life; repelling every thought of discontent, self-seeking and anxiety; cultivating magnanimity, self-control and the habit of silence; practising economy, cheerfulness and helpfulness."

"And, as I can not in my own strength do this, or even with a hope of success attempt it, I look to Thee O Lord, my Father, in Jesus Christ, my savior, and ask for the gift of the holy spirit."

Editor Sheldon went to the office about 8:30 o'clock Monday morning and was on duty until the paper went to press at about 3 o'clock this morning. At about 10 o'clock he had a conference with the correspondents for Eastern papers, and promised to meet them each evening at 7:30 o'clock and give out certain information concerning his work. At about 11 o'clock he had met the local force of the paper and gave out the assignments for the day.

A page was devoted to local news and the leading features in today's issue were reports of a temperance revival and an anti-cigarette meeting. Mr. Sheldon instructed the police reporter that in case of a murder or other crime to write a bare statement of the facts. If he had the space to spare, instead of filling up with the usual details he would go into a discussion of the causes leading up to the crime.

During the conference the sporting editor remarked that there would be a contest at the Y. M. C. A. rooms to-night.

"I think," said Mr. Sheldon, "that that is a good clean sport. You may print it."

The dramatic editor asked instructions about theatres.

"We shall not want anything of that kind," Mr. Sheldon said.

One page was reserved for telegraphic news which ordinarily occupies about three times that space. The Associated Press report was necessarily "blue penciled" with a vengeance.

The market reports were cut from four columns to one. All quotations on stocks and bonds, giving options and other matter involving transactions in futures, were consigned to the waste basket, and only the actual cash prices of grain, produce, etc., were quoted.

A notable feature of the paper was the method of handling advertisements. They were banished from the news and editorial pages and were bunched in places reserved for them. The censorship here was even more rigorous than in the news columns, and a large quantity of this class of matter was cut out, including all relating to patent medicines. The familiar corset advertisements of the magazines, unaccompanied by cuts, sought in vain for space. No retail advertisements from Kansas City or other out-of-town tradesmen were accepted, Mr. Sheldon holding that this would be an injustice to home merchants.

The $20 suit of clothes for $14.75 style of advertising was also barred.

The Capital appeared with a radical change in style and make-up. Practically the only feature that was familiar to its regular readers was the title headline.

The first page, for instance, ordinarily devoted exclusively to telegraph news, did not have a line of the current news of the day. Instead, the page was given up to discussions on what Mr. Sheldon considers the most important questions now before the world. There were four leading articles on this page, the first being devoted to the famine in India, under these headlines and the following introduction:

"Starving India."
"Fifty Million People Affected by the Famine."

"Conditions Growing Worse Instead of Better. The Urgent Need of Aid from Christian America."

"The Capital knows of no more important matter of news the world over this morning than the pitiable condition of famine-stricken India. We give the latest available information of the progress of the story in the following article."

Here follow statements from the Rev. J. E. Abbott, of the Bombay mission, and Lord Curzon, viceroy of India:

"Militarism" was discussed to the extent of about 1,200 words, the leading article under this heading being extracts from a pamphlet on militarism by a Baltimore physician, Dr. Richard H. Thomas, who treated the war evil as a "disease epidemic in all latitudes." He discussed its causes, dangers and cure, and urged the religion of Christ as the only remedy.

The third first-page story was a column and a half symposium on the Kansas prohibitory law and was made up of brief statements from leading politicians and educators of the state, all maintaining that the law had proved a great success.

Months More of War Expected.

LONDON, March 13.—At the commencement of the debate in the house of commons on the army estimates, the parliamentary secretary for the war office, Mr. Wyndham, declared it would be rash at present to think that the number of months the British army would remain in South Africa was likely to be materially shortened. So the government estimates included what was believed to be enough money to continue the efforts at full pressure for another six months and at half pressure for six months thereafter.

Paisley Paid Over Money.

PITTSBURGH, March 12.—Attorney John A. Murphy, counsel for S. T. Paisley, former superintendent of the bureau of highways and sewers of the department of public works, delivered to J. E. Lewis $4,000, which he declared Paisley said was the whole amount misappropriated by Paisley. The money was received without remark.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

EAST END.

Two weeks ago the family of Louis Penny, colored, went away from the East End and up to the present time nothing has been heard of them. The family occupied a house on High street, owned by William Hayes, and when they left the suburb they said nothing to Hayes about their departure. Yesterday Hayes went to the house occupied by Penny and moved their goods to his stable. The disappearance of the family is causing no little talk in that part of the city and no one has the least idea where they went to.

Five days of prayer are to be observed in the Second M. E. church, commencing March 25 and lasting until April 1. The services will be in charge of Rev. George W. Orcutt.

Elmer Stevenson, for several years an employee of the Laughlin China company, will leave that firm on Thursday and go to the Wallace & Chetwynd pottery, where he has taken a position as bench boss in the glaze kiln department. He will be succeeded at the Laughlin pottery by Robert Finley, now at the Thompson pottery.

The annual thank offering meeting of the Ladies' Missionary society of the Second United Presbyterian church will be held in the lecture room of the church next Thursday evening. The meeting is said to be one of the most interesting the society holds during the year.

During the services at the Second United Presbyterian church last Sunday morning 24 persons were admitted to membership. This is one of the largest classes that ever joined an East End church at one time.

John Arnold, who has been confined to his home on First Avenue for the past week, is able to be out.

Mrs. T. F. Anderson, who is ill at her home on Pennsylvania avenue with pneumonia, is improving.

Thomas Ramsay has taken a position at the sewer pipe works as night watchman. He will succeed Clement Harmon who has held that position for several years.

Joseph Johnson has resigned his position at the new Laughlin pottery and will go back to his old position at the brickyard next Monday.

The effects of Frank McBee have been received in the East End. Mrs. McBee is very ill and those who know her are of the opinion that she is in a dangerous condition. McBee is employed as a cask maker at the new Laughlin pottery.

At a meeting of the Young People's Society of the Second United Presbyterian church, held last evening, the following officers were elected to serve for one year: President, J. B. Elliott; vice president, Miss Mary White; secretary, Miss Bessie Hanley; treasurer, William Kinney. The society is in an excellent financial condition and its membership is steadily increasing.

Funeral of Joseph Barker.

The funeral services over the remains of Joseph Barker, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the parish building of St. Stephen's church, Rev. Edwin Weary officiating. The remains can be viewed this evening at the home of John Garner, on College street, from 7 to 10 o'clock, and also tomorrow morning.

—Clarence VanMeter, of the general freight offices of the Pennsylvania company at Pittsburgh, spent Sunday in the city visiting friends.

SOUTH SIDE.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mercer will be pleased to learn that a little son came to their home in Chester last evening.

The street railway company are hauling gravel from the gravel pit near Rock Spring to the power house. The gravel is being used in connection with some building that is being done at that place.

Miss Orill, pastor of the Free Methodist church, went to Hookstown yesterday, where she will remain during the week attending to some work in connection with the building of the new church at that place. A member of the Chester church stated yesterday that it was the intention to have the new building completed by the first of next June, and that the general quarterly meeting of this district would be held in the new church when it was completed. A number of people from Chester intend to attend the opening services.

Engineer McConnell, of the Pennsylvania railroad, was in Chester yesterday for the first time in several weeks. He said the extension would be completed within a few weeks, and that it would not be long before passenger trains would be running over the branch. McConnell has been doing extensive work in the vicinity of McKee's Rocks.

All the furnaces at the Chester rolling mill have been completed and are now ready to be fired. There are ten furnaces at the mill.

O. S. Marshall, of New Cumberland, was in Chester today looking after some business matters.

The large stacks at the Chester rolling mill are being painted. The work is proving to be very tedious.

J. O. Cunningham went to Smith's Ferry yesterday, where he purchased a driving horse.

Joseph Brunson was a Hookstown visitor yesterday.

An effort is being made to take the tools from the well on the Bucher farm, which became fast in the hole last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cunningham, of Chester, left at noon for McKee's Rocks, where they were called on account of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Harper, a sister of Mrs. Cunningham. They will remain at that place until after the funeral services.

Dale, of Philadelphia, filed the answer of the Carnegie Steel company, limited, to the suit of H. C. Frick over the stockholdings of the latter in the company. The answer does not include the replies of Henry Phipps, Jr., Henry M. Curry or of F. T. F. Lovejoy. It is expected that the answers of Mr. Curry and Mr. Phipps will follow in a few days.

Mr. Carnegie makes a complete denial of Mr. Frick's charges and declares the latter accepted the "ironclad agreement," of which he complains in his suit. Mr. Carnegie asserts that Frick was imperious, of uncontrollable temper, or else he did not try to control it; that he was continually chafing under his limited authority, as chairman of the board of managers.

The position is of an advisory character and President Schwab has the entire management of the business. Mr. Frick's time was largely employed in attention to his duties in connection with other enterprises in which he has been interested, and in various speculative schemes for placing the property of the association in the hands of promoters to be floated in marketable securities on the public.

Mr. Carnegie asserts that all times he has kept himself in close touch with the business.

It is stated that Mr. Carnegie holds 58 1/2 per cent of the capital; that some original members have disposed of their interests and new members admitted, and that all transfers have been made on the basis of the "book value," as prescribed in the "ironclad" agreement annexed to the contract under which Mr. Frick became a member of the company. It is moreover, the same system which enabled the plaintiff to require and pay for interests without the expenditure or any investment of any of his own funds.

In February, 1895, Mr. Frick owned 11 per cent of the capital, upon which, it is claimed in the answer, he was indebted to Mr. Carnegie $1,809,191.63 as a balance of the purchase price.

In compliance with his expressed desire, and to relieve plaintiff of the charge which the plaintiff then declared to be a burden upon him, Carnegie purchased said 5 per cent and gave the plaintiff credit for the book value as it then stood.

The transfer reduced Mr. Frick's interest to 6 per cent and the balance due for the purchase price was finally adjusted by Mr. Carnegie taking in payment $129,900 of H. C. Frick Coke company bonds at par and $191.83 in cash.

Mr. Carnegie says he did not ask Mr. Frick to resign, but that he advised him so to do to save him the humiliation of not being re-elected by his fellow partners, who would not vote for him.

It is claimed that the profits of the company are not such as claimed; that Mr. Carnegie made his estimate of this year's profits at $40,000,000 while lunching with his partners in November, 1899; that it was in jest and banter and an uncertain guess 14 months in advance; that the profits last year amounted to $21,000,000, but that only one-fourth was paid out in dividends, and the remainder was turned into the company.

It is claimed that the profits are simply the difference between the amount of sales and actual expenses of manufacture, and that millions have to be spent annually to maintain, enlarge and modernize the plants. It is stated that a large part of the profits has to be absorbed for these improvements.

It is denied that the company had assets on December 31, 1899, that it could transfer $250,000,000 or that Mr. Carnegie ever asserted that the assets were in excess of that sum.

Astounding Politeness.

The truck driver is proverbially profane, and when one is discovered who doesn't swear between syllables when his vehicle is jammed in a bunch of other trucks and blocked trolley cars you feel like taking off your hat to him. Down at Second and Chestnut streets one afternoon, when traffic was at its thickest and trucks and cars were lined along both thoroughfares, two truckmen had equal chances of making the crossing. One was coming down Chestnut and the other along Second street.

Had they been ordinary truckmen each would have whipped up, and the chances are that a collision would have resulted. But these two were not ordinary truckmen. With Chesterfieldian grace one waved his arm to the other, inviting him to take precedence. "You first!" shouted the driver, whereupon a messenger boy who had witnessed the remarkable scene gasped and nearly swallowed his cigarette stump. "After you," was the next contribution to this remarkable dialogue. "Wouldn't that jar you?" muttered a motorman, who was standing clanging his bell for all he was worth.

The two truckmen continued to motion for each other to go ahead. "I insist!" shouted one. "Oh, no; I insist!" shouted the other. Finally a policeman interfered. "Say, one o' yours ducks git a move on," he commanded. "This ain't no pink tea." The truckman coming down Chestnut street consented to cross the street, and traffic was gradually resumed.—Philadelphia Record.

Was She Right?

A certain woman, says the Wichita Eagle, desired the arrest of the saloon keeper who had been selling whisky to her drunken husband. Having conducted the officer to the saloon, she was told by him to pick out the proprietor. Seven men, all looking alike and dressed alike, were standing motionless around a whisky barrel, and she could not tell which was the one, but she stepped to the barrel and turned the spigot, and the liquor began to pour out on the floor. One of the men sprang out of the circle and turned the spigot off. "Arrest that man!" she said.

But was she right? Was it more likely to be the proprietor who would thus plead guilty and go to jail or some innocent man with an unquenchable thirst who was horrified at seeing the awful waste?

Folly of Extravagance.

"Because I agree to undertake your defense," said the eminent criminal lawyer who had been called in, "you will have to be perfectly frank with me and tell me the whole truth. Did you embezzle the $20,000 you are accused of having taken?"

"Yes, sir," replied the accused man. "I'll not attempt to conceal the fact from you. I stole every cent of it."

"How much of it have you still?" "It's all gone but $10."

"Young man," said the eminent lawyer, buttoning his overcoat about him and putting on his gloves, "you'd bet ter plead guilty and throw yourself on the mercy of the court."

"I'll do it if you say so, sir. What are you going to charge me for the advice?"

"Ten dollars."—Chicago Tribune.

Ruskin's Generosity.

The late John Ruskin gave away a great deal of money during his life. Many years his annual income from his pen alone was $30,000, but he lived on less than a tenth of that amount. Indeed, he used to say that a gentleman ought to be able to live on $5 a day. If he could not, he deserved speedily to die.

A Way Out of It.

"A pretty lot of children you are for a minister to have!" exclaimed a West Side pastor whose children were misbehaving at the dinner table.

"Then why don't you change your business, papa?" asked 4-year-old Nellie.—Chicago News.

"I got back at the bookmakers all right today!"

"Win?"

"No; didn't bet."—Philadelphia North American.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

EAST END.

Two weeks ago the family of Louis Penny, colored, went away from the East End and up to the present time nothing has been heard of them. The family occupied a house on High street, owned by William Hayes, and when they left the suburb they said nothing to Hayes about their departure. Yesterday Hayes went to the house occupied by Penny and moved their goods to his stable. The disappearance of the family is causing no little talk in that part of the city and no one has the least idea where they went to.

Five days of prayer are to be observed in the Second M. E. church, commencing March 25 and lasting until April 1. The services will be in charge of Rev. George W. Orontt.

Elmer Stevenson, for several years an employee of the Laughlin China company, will leave that firm on Thursday and go to the Wallace & Chetwynd pottery, where he has taken a position as bench boss in the glaze kiln department. He will be succeeded at the Laughlin pottery by Robert Finley, now at the Thompson pottery.

The annual thank offering meeting of the Ladies' Missionary society of the Second United Presbyterian church will be held in the lecture room of the church next Thursday evening. The meeting is said to be one of the most interesting the society holds during the year.

During the services at the Second United Presbyterian church last Sunday morning 24 persons were admitted to membership. This is one of the largest classes that ever joined an East End church at one time.

John Arnold, who has been confined to his home on First Avenue for the past week, is able to be out.

Mrs. T. F. Anderson, who is ill at her home on Pennsylvania avenue with pneumonia, is improving.

Thomas Ramsay has taken a position at the sewer pipe works as night watchman. He will succeed Clement Harmon who has held that position for several years.

Joseph Johnson has resigned his position at the new Laughlin pottery and will go back to his old position at the brickyard next Monday.

The effects of Frank McBee have been received in the East End. Mrs. McBee is very ill and those who know her are of the opinion that she is in a dangerous condition. McBee is employed as a cask maker at the new Laughlin pottery.

At a meeting of the Young People's Society of the Second United Presbyterian church, held last evening, the following officers were elected to serve for one year: President, J. B. Elliott; vice president, Miss Mary White; secretary, Miss Bessie Hanley; treasurer, William Kinney. The society is in an excellent financial condition and its membership is steadily increasing.

Funeral of Joseph Barker.

The funeral services over the remains of Joseph Barker, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the parish building of St. Stephen's church, Rev. Edwin Weary officiating. The remains can be viewed this evening at the home of John Garner, on College street, from 7 to 10 o'clock, and also tomorrow morning.

—Clarence VanMeter, of the general freight offices of the Pennsylvania company at Pittsburgh, spent Sunday in the city visiting friends.

SOUTH SIDE.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mercer will be pleased to learn that a little son came to their home in Chester last evening.

The street railway company are hauling gravel from the gravel pit near Rock Spring to the power house. The gravel is being used in connection with some building that is being done at that place.

Miss Crill, pastor of the Free Methodist church, went to Hookstown yesterday, where she will remain during the week attending to some work in connection with the building of the new church at that place. A member of the Chester church stated yesterday that it was the intention to have the new building completed by the first of next June, and that the general quarterly meeting of this district would be held in the new church when it was completed. A number of people from Chester intend to attend the opening services.

Engineer McConnell, of the Pennsylvania railroad, was in Chester yesterday for the first time in several weeks. He said the extension would be completed within a few weeks, and that it would not be long before passenger trains would be running over the branch. McConnell has been doing extensive work in the vicinity of McKee's Rocks.

All the furnaces at the Chester rolling mill have been completed and are now ready to be fired. There are ten furnaces at the mill.

O. S. Marshall, of New Cumberland, was in Chester today looking after some business matters.

The large stacks at the Chester rolling mill are being painted. The work is proving to be very tedious.

J. O. Cunningham went to Smith's Ferry yesterday, where he purchased a driving horse.

REPLY OF CARNEGIE TO SUIT OF FRICK.

Denies Claim of $40,000,000 Profits—Advised Plaintiff to Resign, but Didn't Make Request.

PITTSBURG, March 13.—Attorneys Dalzell, Scott & Gordon and Clarence Burleigh, of Pittsburgh, and George Tucker Bispham and Richard C. Dale, of Philadelphia, filed the answer of the Carnegie Steel company, limited, to the suit of H. C. Frick over the stockholdings of the latter in the company. The answer does not include the replies of Henry Phipps, Jr., Henry M. Curry or of F. T. F. Lovejoy. It is expected that the answers of Mr. Curry and Mr. Phipps will follow in a few days.

Mr. Carnegie makes a complete denial of Mr. Frick's charges and declares the latter accepted the "ironclad agreement," of which he complains in his suit. Mr. Carnegie asserts that Frick was imperious, of uncontrollable temper, or else he did not try to control it; that he was continually chafing under his limited authority, as chairman of the board of managers.

The position is of an advisory character and President Schwab has the entire management of the business. It is stated that Mr. Carnegie holds 58 1/2 per cent of the capital; that some original members have disposed of their interests and new members admitted, and that all transfers have been made on the basis of the "book value," as prescribed in the "ironclad" agreement annexed to the contract under which Mr. Frick became a member of the company. It is moreover, the same system which enabled the plaintiff to require and pay for interests without the expenditure or any investment of any of his own funds.

In February, 1895, Mr. Frick owned 11 per cent of the capital, upon which, it is claimed in the answer, he was indebted to Mr. Carnegie $1,809,191.63 as a balance of the purchase price.

In compliance with his expressed desire, and to relieve plaintiff of the charge which the plaintiff then declared to be a burden upon him, Carnegie purchased said 5 per cent and gave the plaintiff credit for the book value as it then stood.

The transfer reduced Mr. Frick's interest to 6 per cent and the balance due for the purchase price was finally adjusted by Mr. Carnegie taking in payment $129,900 of H. C. Frick Coke company bonds at par and $191.83 in cash.

Mr. Carnegie says he did not ask Mr. Frick to resign, but that he advised him so to do to save him the humiliation of not being re-elected by his fellow partners, who would not vote for him.

It is claimed that the profits are simply the difference between the amount of sales and actual expenses of manufacture, and that millions have to be spent annually to maintain, enlarge and modernize the plants. It is stated that a large part of the profits has to be absorbed for these improvements.

It is denied that the company had assets on December 31, 1899, that it could transfer $350,000,000 or that Mr. Carnegie ever asserted that the assets were in excess of that sum.

THREE-CORNERED FIGHT

Each County to Have a Candidate for Congress.

THE MAHONING MEN WAITING

For a Chance to Profit by the Taylor-Baker Contest in Columbiana and Stark—Sixty-Two Delegates From Mahoning County Are Solid.

The congressional contest is becoming interesting. In addition to the two candidates already announced, R. W. Taylor, of Columbiana, and C. C. Baker, of Stark, Mahoning Republicans have now expressed their determination to run a home candidate.

Columbiana county primaries will be held two weeks hence—Saturday, March 24. Stark county primaries will be held a week later—Saturday, April 7.

Mahoning Republicans Saturday decided to hold the county primaries March 24, but to hold back the election of congressional delegates until Stark and Columbiana have voted and then it can be determined whether it will be advisable to support a candidate from Mahoning county.

The 62 Mahoning delegates will be selected at the county convention held Tuesday, April 10. Stark has 101 delegates and Columbiana 81.

The Youngstown Telegram, Republican, in reporting the matter says: The overwhelming sentiment in the committee was for a Mahoning county candidate for congress this year if Congressman Taylor loses in the other two counties, and that the best way to promote a Mahoning county man's chances is for a county convention to select a delegation which will vote 62 solid in Mahoning's interest every time.

SPLENDID HEALTH.

I. W. Shingleton Writes of Himself and His Son John at Gerona, P. I.

O. A. Shingleton has just received a letter from his brother, I. W. Shingleton, a member of Company A, Twelfth United States infantry, now stationed at Gerona, 82 miles from Manila. Private Shingleton enclosed a photograph of himself and his son John, who is serving with him in the same regiment. The picture is remarkably good, and shows both men to be in fine shape. Mr. Shingleton says John weighs 165 pounds and is the picture of health, while as for himself, he never felt better in his life. He is company cook and makes $21.60 a month, while John works for the lieutenant and makes, with extra, $20.60. Mr. Shingleton says they hardly know what day of the week it is half the time, except for inspection on Saturday and company drill every day but Saturday and Sunday. A good many of the boys, he says, get into the guard house through fondness for vino, a drink that makes them wild and is very easy to get. He adds: "We had to tie down one man yesterday."

TRANS-ATLANTIC TRAVELERS

Furnished Special Attendants by the Pennsylvania System.

The bureau of attendants for trans-Atlantic travelers established in Jersey City and New York City twenty years ago by the Pennsylvania system, has proven a great convenience to persons making European trips and to tourists arriving in America at that port. It will be particularly convenient for visitors to the Paris exposition because the departure docks of most of the Atlantic steamship lines are convenient to the new Jersey City passenger station of the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

This bureau consists of experienced agents whose duties are to meet passengers arriving in Jersey City and New York over the Pennsylvania lines and assist them in arranging for trans-

Atlantic trips via any of the steamship lines by conducting them to steamships and aiding in preparations for a trip abroad.

These agents will provide cabs operated by the Pennsylvania system and aid passengers with their baggage. They are fully posted on matters pertaining to steamships leaving New York, and arrangements can be made through them for procuring steamship tickets in advance.

They also meet incoming steamships to aid travelers in shaping details for continuing journeys from New York over the Pennsylvania lines by furnishing tickets, arranging for the transfer of baggage from steamship docks after it has been passed by customs inspectors, and having the same checked through to destination. They will reserve sleeping car accommodations and relieve persons of the foregoing details, making themselves useful as attendants and guides free of charge.

Further information on the subject may be obtained by addressing the nearest Pennsylvania lines ticket agent, or C. L. Kimball, assistant general passenger agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

INFIRMARY DIRECTOR.

John J. Cadwalader Is In Every Way Fitted For the Office.

The Columbiana Ledger is the home paper of Mr. John J. Cadwalader, now a candidate for the position of infirmary director, and the Ledger speaks of him in the following terms:

"Mr. Cadwalader is a highly respected farmer of Fairfield township. He is a man in every way fitted for the office to which he aspires, and should receive the unanimous support of Fairfield, his home township."

Mr. Cadwalader is now in our city, and he is rapidly making friends on every hand. His friends and acquaintances in East Liverpool speak of him in the warmest terms of praise, and assert that the duties of infirmary director will receive careful and conscientious consideration in case the voters of the county see fit to honor him with their ballots. Cast your vote for John J. Cadwalader.

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR.

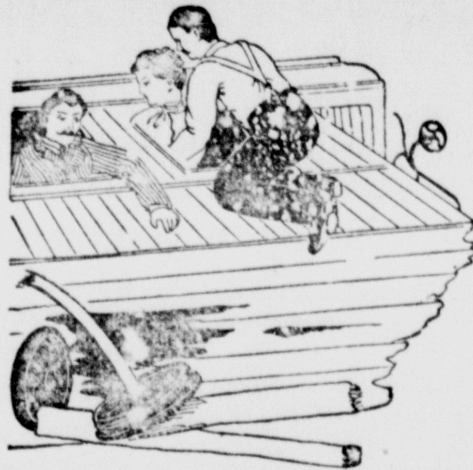

Hundreds of East Liverpool Citizens Can Tell You All About It.

Home endorsement, the public expression of East Liverpool people should be evidence beyond dispute for every East Liverpool reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in far away places. Read the following:

Mr. Samuel Mayer, who is an employe of the McNicol pottery, whose place of residence is 183 Bank street says: "My health was fairly good until my kidneys began to trouble me, causing my back to ache a good part of the time and to get sore and lame across the loins. The pain was often sharp and penetrating, especially when stooping or lifting, and I never got rid of the trouble until I procured Doan's kidney pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and tried them. When I had taken one box the soreness and pains in the back and other symptoms of kidney distress passed away."

Sold for 50 cents per box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

The engineer misunderstood the signals and there was a frightful railroad collision, with terrible loss of life. The whole country was appalled by that accident.

There is doubtless a far greater loss of life occurring every day, in various sections of the country, for which the only excuse is,—"the doctor didn't understand the symptoms." These cases are not the subjects of special inquest or the country would be aghast at the sacrifice of life to ignorance.

It has been the experience of Dr. R. V. Pierce and his staff of assistant physicians, that ninety-eight out of every hundred persons submitting to their treatment can be cured. People given up by the local physicians, weak, emaciated, with stubborn coughs and bleeding lungs have been absolutely cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All letters are held as strictly private and treated as sacredly confidential. Answers are mailed in plain envelopes without any printing on them.

"Last spring I was taken with severe pains in my chest, and was so weak I could hardly walk about the house," says Mrs. G. E. Kerr, of Fort Dodge, Webster Co., Iowa. "I tried several physicians and they told me I had consumption. I heard of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and I thought I would try some of it. Before I had taken the first bottle I was very much better; I took five bottles of it and have not yet had any return of the trouble."

First Negro Minstrels.

The first negro minstrel troupe appeared in the United States about 1845. They were real negroes, led by a man named Johnson, and the melody which gained them great applause was named "That Old Gray Goose." The words ran, "Oh, don't you see that old gray goose a-lookin' at the gander?" This was sung by the tenor voice, and the chorus ran in parts to the words "Where," "Here," "I hear," and then a ringing chorus. Another of their part songs was "Oh, Mamma, I Must Be Married to Mr. Punchinello," different voices singing "Who Mr. Punch?" "Who Mr. Nell?" "Who Mr. Lo?" "Who Mr. Punchinello?"

Jim Was Ahead.

"It's strange," sighed the trolley conductor, "how, when two boys start out with equal chances, one of them is bound to forge ahead while the other lags behind. There was Jim. Jim and I were fast friends as youths, but look at me now! Equal as our chances were, Jim is ahead!"

"What is he doing?" asked the passenger who had paid his fare.

"He's the motorman up front. Did I get your nickel?" Bang! Clatter! "Edmund place!" Bang! Clatter! Ting-a-ling! "Yes, sir; it's strange!"—Detroit Free Press.

The chamois is usually identified with Switzerland, but the animal is less common there than in any other country which it inhabits. Austria is the real home of the chamois, where they are most plentiful.

Columbiana county primaries will be held two weeks hence—Saturday, March 24. Stark county primaries will be held a week later—Saturday, April 7.

Mahoning Republicans Saturday decided to hold the county primaries March 24, but to hold back the election of congressional delegates until Stark and Columbiana have voted and then it can be determined whether it will be advisable to support a candidate from Mahoning county.

The 62 Mahoning delegates will be selected at the county convention held Tuesday, April 10. Stark has 101 delegates and Columbiana 81.

The Youngstown Telegram, Republican, in reporting the matter says: The overwhelming sentiment in the committee was for a Mahoning county candidate for congress this year if Congressman Tayler loses in the other two counties, and that the best way to promote a Mahoning county man's chances is for a county convention to select a delegation which will vote 62 solid in Mahoning's interest every time.

SPLENDID HEALTH.

I. W. Shingleton Writes of Himself and His Son John at Gerona, P. I.

O. A. Shingleton has just received a letter from his brother, I. W. Shingleton, a member of Company A, Twelfth United States infantry, now stationed at Gerona, 82 miles from Manila. Private Shingleton enclosed a photograph of himself and his son John, who is serving with him in the same regiment. The picture is remarkably good, and shows both men to be in fine shape. Mr. Shingleton says John weighs 165 pounds and is the picture of health, while as for himself, he never felt better in his life. He is company cook and makes $21.60 a month, while John works for the lieutenant and makes, with extra, $20.60. Mr. Shingleton says they hardly know what day of the week it is half the time, except for inspection on Saturday and company drill every day but Saturday and Sunday. A good many of the boys, he says, get into the guard house through fondness for veno, a drink that makes them wild and is very easy to get. He adds: "We had to tie down one man yesterday."

TRANS-ATLANTIC TRAVELERS

Furnished Special Attendants by the Pennsylvania System.

The bureau of attendants for trans-Atlantic travelers established in Jersey City and New York City twenty years ago by the Pennsylvania system, has proven a great convenience to persons making European trips and to tourists arriving in America at that port. It will be particularly convenient for visitors to the Paris exposition because the departure docks of most of the Atlantic steamship lines are convenient to the new Jersey City passenger station of the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

This bureau consists of experienced agents whose duties are to meet passengers arriving in Jersey City and New York over the Pennsylvania lines and assist them in arranging for trans-

Atlantic trips via any of the steamship lines by conducting them to steamships and aiding in preparations for a trip abroad.

These agents will provide cabs operated by the Pennsylvania system and aid passengers with their baggage. They are fully posted on matters pertaining to steamships leaving New York, and arrangements can be made through them for procuring steamship tickets in advance.

They also meet incoming steamships to aid travelers in shaping details for continuing journeys from New York over the Pennsylvania lines by furnishing tickets, arranging for the transfer of baggage from steamship docks after it has been passed by customs inspectors, and having the same checked through to destination. They will reserve sleeping car accommodations and relieve persons of the foregoing details, making themselves useful as attendants and guides free of charge.

Further information on the subject may be obtained by addressing the nearest Pennsylvania lines ticket agent, or C. L. Kimball, assistant general passenger agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

INFIRMARY DIRECTOR.

John J. Cadwalader Is In Every Way Fitted For the Office.

The Columbiana Ledger is the home paper of Mr. John J. Cadwalader, now a candidate for the position of infirmary director, and the Ledger speaks of him in the following terms:

"Mr. Cadwalader is a highly respected farmer of Fairfield township. He is a man in every way fitted for the office to which he aspires, and should receive the unanimous support of Fairfield, his home township."

Mr. Cadwalader is now in our city, and he is rapidly making friends on every hand. His friends and acquaintances in East Liverpool speak of him in the warmest terms of praise, and assert that the duties of infirmary director will receive careful and conscientious consideration in case the voters of the county see fit to honor him with their ballots. Cast your vote for John J. Cadwalader.

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR.

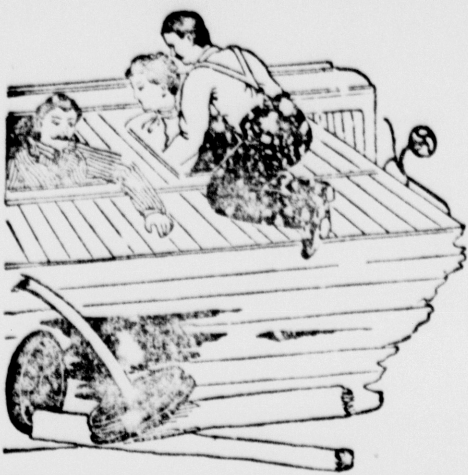

Hundreds of East Liverpool Citizens Can Tell You All About It.

Home endorsement, the public expression of East Liverpool people should be evidence beyond dispute for every East Liverpool reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in far away places. Read the following:

Mr. Samuel Mayer, who is an employee of the McNicol pottery, whose place of residence is 183 Bank street says: "My health was fairly good until my kidneys began to trouble me, causing my back to ache a good part of the time and to get sore and lame across the loins. The pain was often sharp and penetrating, especially when stooping or lifting, and I never got rid of the trouble until I procured Doan's kidney pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and tried them. When I had taken one box the soreness and pains in the back and other symptoms of kidney distress passed away."

Sold for 50 cents per box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

The engineer misunderstood the signals and there was a frightful railroad collision, with terrible loss of life. The whole country was appalled by that accident.

There is doubtless a far greater loss of life occurring every day, in various sections of the country, for which the only excuse is,—"the doctor didn't understand the symptoms." These cases are not the subjects of special inquest or the country would be aghast at the sacrifice of life to ignorance.

It has been the experience of Dr. R. V. Pierce and his staff of assistant physicians, that ninety-eight out of every hundred persons submitting to their treatment can be cured. People given up by the local physicians, weak, emaciated, with stubborn coughs and bleeding lungs have been absolutely cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All letters are held as strictly private and treated as sacredly confidential. Answers are mailed in plain envelopes without any printing on them.

"Last spring I was taken with severe pains in my chest, and was so weak I could hardly walk about the house," says Mrs. G. E. Kerr, of Fort Dodge, Webster Co., Iowa. "I tried several physicians and they told me I had consumption. I heard of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and I thought I would try some of it. Before I had taken the first bottle I was very much better; I took five bottles of it and have not yet had any return of the trouble."

First Negro Minstrel.

The first negro minstrel troupe appeared in the United States about 1845. They were real negroes, led by a man named Johnson, and the melody which gained them great applause was named "That Old Gray Goose." The words ran, "Oh, don't you see that old gray goose a-lookin' at the gander?" This was sung by the tenor voice, and the chorus ran in parts to the words "Where," "Here," "I hear," and then a ringing chorus. Another of their part songs was "Oh, Mamma, I Must Be Married to Mr. Punchinello," different voices singing "Who Mr. Punch?" "Who Mr. Nell?" "Who Mr. Lo?" "Who Mr. Punchinello?"

Jim Was Ahead.

"It's strange," sighed the trolley conductor, "how, when two boys start out with equal chances, one of them is bound to forge ahead while the other lags behind. There was Jim. Jim and I were fast friends as youths, but look at me now! Equal as our chances were, Jim is ahead."

"What is he doing?" asked the passenger who had paid his fare.

"He's the motorman up front. Did I get your nickel?" Bang! Clatter! "Edmund place!" Bang! Clatter! Ting-a-ling! "Yes, sir; it's strange!"—Detroit Free Press.

The chamois is usually identified with Switzerland, but the animal is less common there than in any other country which it inhabits. Austria is the real home of the chamois, where they are most plentiful.

COMMON PLEAS JUDGE.

Attention is strongly attracted to the battle now on for this position. Ralph S. Ambler, of Canton, has a very strong following, and is daily adding to his strength in this vicinity. He is a genial, affable gentleman, and those who know him most intimately assert that he is eminently qualified and fitted for the judgeship. His opponent, Judge Isaac H. Taylor, is a foeman worthy of his steel, and there promises to be a battle royal between the contestants. The Republican party can justly be proud of its candidates for the berth of the common pleas judgeship.

FOR CONGRESS.

The Friends of C. C. Baker Are
"Legion"--He Is Worthy
of Them.

"EDITOR NEWS REVIEW:--I have been making a close canvass of the congressional situation, in so far as the city of East Liverpool is concerned; and, as a warm friend and advocate of Mr. C. C. Baker, I am delighted with my friend's chances for congressional honors. I may be an interested witness along this line, and may not be able to give an unprejudiced opinion; but I firmly believe that I can give about as clear judgment respecting the true condition of affairs as any man in the city. C. C. Baker has been making friends by the wholesale ever since his arrival in our midst. Why? Simply because he possesses the characteristics which win and hold friendship. He is a square man, worthy of the position to which he aspires, and capable of filling it to the satisfaction of his constituents. He is an 'approachable' man, clever, courteous and obliging, deeming it no hardship to go out of his way to assist a man in the hour of need or emergency. I know this to be a fact, and have had the fact demonstrated in my own life's history. If the voters of this district honor him with the nomination, he will demonstrate that they have placed their trust in one who will not fail them in any emergency. As I have already intimated in the heading of this article, his friends are 'legion,' and I sincerely hope that the 'legion' will be added to ere the 24th of March, and that my friend will receive such a vote in East Liverpool as to assure him that the people of this live town are proud to do him honor.

FRATERNAL MYSTIC CIRCLE

Very Pleasant Meeting Held
Last Evening In Honor of
Mr. Duckwitz.

The Fraternal Mystic circle had an exceedingly pleasant time last evening at the reception in Grand Army hall tendered to F. H. Duckwitz, of Philadelphia, supreme mystic ruler, successor to the late Judge P. C. Young, of Lisbon. A. H. Clark made the address of welcome which was responded to in a very neat and happy speech by Mr. Duckwitz. Hon. G. P. Ikiert also made a charming address. W. J. McKinney acted as master of ceremonies. Short addresses were also delivered by other members. Choice refreshments were served, the pleasure of the occasion being added to by music on the graphophone in charge of Lewis Bros. The organization presented to Mr. Duckwitz a very handsome silver water pitcher. All reports indicate the circle is in first class condition from every standpoint.

Discussed the Grim Case.

Last night while the claims committee was in session Constable Powell served the members with subpoenas to appear in the Grim case. Peach wanted to know what council knew about the matter, and said if the officers did recover a judgment here he would not be willing to pay it, but preferred to let the courts decide.

WILL CONTEST.

Settlement Reached in the Litigation Over the Estate of
Mrs. Nace.

LISBON, March 13.--[Special]--Just as all arrangements had been made for the hearing of the contest over the will of Mrs. Nace, of this place, who died leaving an estate worth $40,000, yesterday afternoon the attorneys announced that a settlement had been agreed upon. The suit was brought by M. N. Hamilton and others against Georgiana Cook and other heirs of the late Abigail Nace. Forty some witnesses had been summoned. It was contended by some of the heirs that the will of Mrs. Nace, made in 1896, was not her last will; that another was made in 1898. The 1898 will could not be found yesterday, and it could not be proved that it was a valid will, so that the will of 1896 stands. Just what the settlement was has not been made public.

MAD AT EACH OTHER.

Angry Men Bid Up a $200 Property Until One Paid
$375 For It.

LISBON, March 13--[Special]--Sheriff Noragon yesterday sold lot 98 in Bayard, appraised at $190 and valued at $200, for $375. The sale was made in the case of Jacob A. Stambaugh vs. Martin E. Lamport. The big price secured is said to have been due to the fact that two of the bidders were mad at each other, and each was determined not to let the other get the lot.

In the case of Leah H. Boone vs. C. S. McIntyre and others, one and one-tenth acres in Salem near Hope cemetery, was sold by the sheriff for $380 to A. W. Tayler.

Mr. Peach wants to know when the city began paying men time and a half for night work, and the matter will probably be investigated.

Mrs. Nace.

LISBON, March 13.--[Special]--Just as all arrangements had been made for the hearing of the contest over the will of Mrs. Nace, of this place, who died leaving an estate worth $40,000, yesterday afternoon the attorneys announced that a settlement had been agreed upon. The suit was brought by M. N. Hamilton and others against Georgiana Cook and other heirs of the late Abigail Nace. Forty some witnesses had been summoned. It was contended by some of the heirs that the will of Mrs. Nace, made in 1896, was not her last will; that another was made in 1898. The 1898 will could not be found yesterday, and it could not be proved that it was a valid will, so that the will of 1896 stands. Just what the settlement was has not been made public.

MAD AT EACH OTHER.

Angry Men Bid Up a $200 Property Until One Paid
$375 For It.

LISBON, March 13--[Special]--Sheriff Noragon yesterday sold lot 98 in Bayard, appraised at $190 and valued at $200, for $375. The sale was made in the case of Jacob A. Stambaugh vs. Martin E. Lamport. The big price secured is said to have been due to the fact that two of the bidders were mad at each other, and each was determined not to let the other get the lot.

In the case of Leah H. Boone vs. C. S. McIntyre and others, one and one-tenth acres in Salem near Hope cemetery, was sold by the sheriff for $380 to A. W. Taylor.

EXTRA POLICE.

IT IS SAID THE PRESENT FORCE WILL BE ENLARGED.

Former Councils Have Discussed the Matter, but Never Took Any Action.

A question that council will discuss after the new members are sworn in is that of extra policemen. The matter has been discussed by former councils, but nothing ever came of it. It is argued that the city is getting too large for the present force to thoroughly look after and at least eight officers or more are needed to give the citizens the proper service. The matter has come up with every administration for several years and it is said the rule will not be violated this year. A question that will figure somewhat in the matter is where will the mayor be able to find eight men who are five feet ten inches tall and weigh 160 pounds that are willing to serve on the force.

BRILLIANT OHIO MAN.

The Washington Post Speaks of Congressman R. W. Taylor's Splendid Abilities.

[From the Washington Post.]

Representative Taylor first came to the notice of Speaker Reed in the fifty-fourth congress, when he was serving his first term, in an argument as a member of one of the elections committees for a Democrat. The Ohioan's speech was forcible, displaying a large comprehension of the law and the facts, and not only helped in the seating of the Democrat, but resulted in his appointment at the next congress as chairman of an election committee.

In that congress, the Fifty-fifth, Mr. Taylor showed capacity for disposing of election contests promptly and equitably. There was no effort to crowd the evidence in favor of the Republican contestant or contestant, as the case might be. Taylor always presented his cases in such a manner that the house was willing to listen. General Henderson, knowing of his attainments as a lawyer, looked to him some time before this session began to investigate the law of the Roberts case, and he undertook the task with thoroughness.

Spiritual Hypochondria.

Some think they are too well to go to a doctor, though dying of a stealthy disease. Others have a sort of spiritual hypochondria, imagining they have everything ailing them, while a visit to the doctor reassures them that they are well. All should welcome God's revelation of self, for they can but reassure the holy and will clearly indicate the weak spot of the sickly.—Christian Standard.

The Grim case was retried before Justice Rose this afternoon, the defense being absent. It is expected that judgment will be given by default and defendants will appeal.

THE MAYOR WAS BUSY

He Held a Session of Court Last Night

AND TWO MINORS WERE FINED

On Charges of Intoxication, But Their Hearings Were Conducted in Executive Session—Horton Withdrew a Charge—Cox Was Arrested Again—One Lodger.

Officer White yesterday afternoon arrested Christopher Kraft, an 18 year old boy who lives in East End. Kraft was with Cooley Saturday night and the charge against him was that of intoxication. He was fined $9.60.

Robert Cooley, the 17 year old boy who was arrested for being drunk Saturday night, had a hearing before the mayor last night and plead guilty to the charge. He was fined $9.60. His hearing was held in executive session.

J. S. Miller had a hearing last night on a charge of being drunk Saturday night. He was fined $9.60.

William Horton yesterday afternoon withdrew the charge of assault and battery against Silas Hilton and the case was dropped. There was a large attendance at the mayor's court last night but the spectators were disappointed.

George Cox, who was released yesterday morning on a charge of intoxication got drunk last night and Officer Davidson found him asleep in Midway alley. He was aroused and told to go home but he failed to live up to his instructions and later was found asleep on Second street. This time he was run in. The mayor fined him $9.60 but remitted the fine provided Cox would leave the city at once. Cox said he would be glad to accept the terms, and departed for other fields.

Thomas Maher, who claims his home as Preble county this state, was an occupant of the city jail as a lodger. This morning he said he had money and was a lead pencil vender. The mayor told him he had had enough experience with lead pencil dealers, and advised Thomas to depart. Thomas said he was never in the city before last night, and would get out as soon as possible.

Has a Happy Home.

OUR ALPHA ADDITION,

Located south of Bank street extended, east of Bradshaw and north of Huston Addition, is taking with home-seekers. These are the cheapest lots in the city within same distance of the Diamond. They lie well and you can reach them by paved streets. It is wondered why we sell them on the terms. Some get the impression that they are inferior and we want to show them off. Such is not the case. The lots are slightly sloping, but none to hurt; face to the south, and are really worth more money. We sell them on the terms because we are permanently engaged in the real estate business, and, owning this addition, choose to sell these lots in this way. Anyone can afford to buy one. The terms are

$5 DOWN AND $1 PER WEEK.

Those country residence sites of 2 and 2½ acres, known as

EXTRA POLICE.

IT IS SAID THE PRESENT FORCE WILL BE ENLARGED.

Former Councils Have Discussed the Matter, but Never Took Any Action.

A question that council will discuss after the new members are sworn in is that of extra policemen. The matter has been discussed by former councils, but nothing ever came of it. It is argued that the city is getting too large for the present force to thoroughly look after and at least eight officers or more are needed to give the citizens the proper service. The matter has come up with every administration for several years and it is said the rule will not be violated this year. A question that will figure somewhat in the matter is where will the mayor be able to find eight men who are five feet ten inches tall and weigh 160 pounds that are willing to serve on the force.

BRILLIANT OHIO MAN.

The Washington Post Speaks of Congressman R. W. Taylor's Splendid Abilities.

[From the Washington Post.]

Representative Taylor first came to the notice of Speaker Reed in the fifty-fourth congress, when he was serving his first term, in an argument as a member of one of the elections committees for a Democrat. The Ohioan's speech was forcible, displaying a large comprehension of the law and the facts, and not only helped in the seating of the Democrat, but resulted in his appointment at the next congress as chairman of an election committee.

In that congress, the Fifty-fifth, Mr. Taylor showed capacity for disposing of election contests promptly and equitably. There was no effort to crowd the evidence in favor of the Republican contestant or contestant, as the case might be. Taylor always presented his cases in such a manner that the house was willing to listen. General Henderson, knowing of his attainments as a lawyer, looked to him some time before this session began to investigate the law of the Roberts case, and he undertook the task with thoroughness.

Spiritual Hypochondria.

Some think they are too well to go to a doctor, though dying of a stealthy disease. Others have a sort of spiritual hypochondria, imagining they have everything ailing them, while a visit to the doctor reassures them that they are well. All should welcome God's revelation of self, for they can but reassure the holy and will clearly indicate the weak spot of the sickly.—Christian Standard.

THE MAYOR WAS BUSY

He Held a Session of Court Last Night

AND TWO MINORS WERE FINED

On Charges of Intoxication, But Their Hearings Were Conducted in Executive Session—Horton Withdrew a Charge—Cox Was Arrested Again—One Lodger.

Officer White yesterday afternoon arrested Christopher Kraft, an 18 year old boy who lives in East End. Kraft was with Cooley Saturday night and the charge against him was that of intoxication. He was fined $9.60.

Robert Cooley, the 17 year old boy who was arrested for being drunk Saturday night, had a hearing before the mayor last night and plead guilty to the charge. He was fined $9.60. His hearing was held in executive session.

J. S. Miller had a hearing last night on a charge of being drunk Saturday night. He was fined $9.60.

William Horton yesterday afternoon withdrew the charge of assault and battery against Silas Hilton and the case was dropped. There was a large attendance at the mayor's court last night but the spectators were disappointed.

George Cox, who was released yesterday morning on a charge of intoxication got drunk last night and Officer Davidson found him asleep in Midway alley. He was aroused and told to go home but he failed to live up to his instructions and later was found asleep on Second street. This time he was run in. The mayor fined him $9.60 but remitted the fine provided Cox would leave the city at once. Cox said he would be glad to accept the terms, and departed for other fields.

Thomas Maher, who claims his home as Preble county this state, was an occupant of the city jail as a lodger. This morning he said he had money and was a lead pencil vender. The mayor told him he had had enough experience with lead pencil dealers, and advised Thomas to depart. Thomas said he was never in the city before last night, and would get out as soon as possible.

OUR ALPHA ADDITION,

Located south of Bank street extended, east of Bradshaw and north of Huston Addition, is taking with home-seekers. These are the cheapest lots in the city within same distance of the Diamond. They lie well and you can reach them by paved streets. It is wondered why we sell them on the terms. Some get the impression that they are inferior and we want to shove them off. Such is not the case. The lots are slightly sloping, but none to hurt; face to the south, and are really worth more money. We sell them on the terms because we are permanently engaged in the real estate business, and, owning this addition, choose to sell these lots in this way. Anyone can afford to buy one. The terms are

$5 DOWN AND $1 PER WEEK.

Those country residence sites of 2 and 2 1/2 acres, known as

THE TRAIN SPOTTER.

AN OFFICIAL WHO IS WELL PAID BY THE RAILROADS.

The Work Which Is Performed by This Class of Detectives and the Qualities For Which It Calls—Methods of the Woman Spotter.

A little over three months ago there alighted from an Oakland ferryboat a demure little woman, who passed along with the crowd, with scarcely a glance to the right or left. Her pettiness attracted some attention and her modesty more, but no one who observed the air of confidence with which she made her way to the public carriage stand would have imagined that she was a stranger and that for the first time in her life she was visiting San Francisco.

Giving a few quiet directions and entering a cab, she was whirled away from the hustling throng and driven to a hotel. Later the register contained an unassuming "Miss Waller, Chicago." Her room was No. 11. Calling a private messenger, she dispatched a message to a firm of lawyers, and that evening, promptly at 8 o'clock, a prosperous looking, well dressed gentleman entered the hotel, glanced at the register, and, ignoring the clerk's question, "Do you want anything?" passed by the waiting elevator and walked up the stairs.

That was Tuesday evening. On Wednesday morning Miss Waller might have been seen boarding a Market street car bound for the ferry, where she purchased a train ticket and crossed to the mole. She returned late on Friday evening, and Saturday morning the same messenger took a sealed letter to the same lawyers, but this time there was no evening caller. Saturday evening she left town again for a few days, and these trips were continued until one day last week, when, by the merest chance, the object of her repeated outings was discovered. On this occasion she was the possessor of a ticket to a city near the Missouri river, and she smilingly confessed that she was bidding goodbye to San Francisco for some time to come.

As an illustration of the care which she must exercise in order to enhance her value to the big railway corporations in this country it is only necessary to state that in the ten years which she has devoted to the business of spotter, or, as she would probably prefer to have it called, private detective, she has doubtless made fewer friends than any one else in the country. And while she will not allow any one to get thoroughly acquainted with her, she does not make enemies. That would be ruinous.

It is an unwritten law of the railroads that every employee is open to suspicion until he has been proved guilty, and the people who take upon themselves the task of separating the two classes—those who are found guilty and those who are as yet merely under suspicion—are objects of the greatest contempt with the army of toilers who seek a living on the trains. To offset this unpopularity, however, they have the inducement of large financial returns. There is no ironbound rule governing the amount of money which they receive, but the more proficient of the class probably make from $2,500 to $3,000 a year.

At times a railroad will have an important case on its hand, and the services of a first class spotter will be invaluable to the company, and on such occasions, if successful, the financial returns increase wonderfully.

There is a much greater demand for this class of detectives in the east than there is here, and several reasons are given for this condition of affairs. In the first place, traffic being heavier, there are more trains run there, and more men are employed by the companies. Besides, that section is more thickly populated, and way trains are in many instances run hourly, if not oftener, but probably the truest cause for the increased dishonesty among railway conductors in the east is the low rate of salary which they receive.

There is a well defined belief among eastern men who travel extensively that any man who has reached that degree of prosperity where he can afford to wear creased trousers is hopelessly extravagant if he pay more than one-third fare after crossing the Mississippi river. I once heard a popular actor giving his reasons for this assertion in a resort on the Atlantic coast, and, after enlightening his audience with a dissertation on the almost utter worthlessness of money in the west, so far as railroad traveling was concerned, he continued:

"Take any train on any road west of Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago or St. Paul, and the rest is easy. Assume an air of indifference and smoke a cigar. If your conductor be seedy looking, have a beard, an old uniform with threadbare elbows and a hopeless expression on his face, pay your fare. He is an honest man. A thousand dollars wouldn't tempt him, and you are out a whole stack of dollars for getting on his train. Had you waited for the next one things would have been different. There you have a prosperous looking fellow, who spent his last hour before leaving time in a barber's chair and who, but for his uniform, would pass for a drummer or even a banker. He looks as well fed and as well groomed as a king, and you need have no fear that he will decline your invitation to divide the cost of your ride to your destination or at least to the end of his division."—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Parisian Way.

It must be hard for the untraveled Anglo-Saxon to grasp the idea that a poet can without loss of prestige recite his lines in a public cafe before a mixed audience. If such doubting souls could, however, be present at one of these noctes ambrosianae, they would quickly realize that the Latin temperament can throw a grace and childish abandon around an act that would cause an Englishman or an American to appear supremely ridiculous. One's taste or sense of fitness is never shocked. It seems the most natural thing in the world to be sitting there with your glass of beer before you while some rising poet whose name ten years later may figure among the "Immortal Forty" recites to you his loves and his ambition or brings tears into your eyes with a description of some humble hero or martyr.—Eliot Gregory in Scribner's.

She Heard It.

The surplised choir had done its duty for the evening service. But all during the church hours there had been a peculiar sound outside as if a child were crying. In reality it was something the matter with the organ. It could be heard distinctly in the auditorium of the church. When the choir sang the recessional and marched slowly out of the church into the dressing rooms, one of the young ladies among the sopranos asked the woman who takes care of the robes:

"Did you hear that awful squeaking out here?"

"Yes, indeed, mum; I could almost understand the words."

And nothing more was said on the subject.—Detroit Free Press.

Soldiers Avoid the Bean.

"I have noticed," said the old soldier, "that there is one vegetable which the veterans of the civil war religiously avoid. That is the bean. It proved a very staying article, but after we had campaigned on it from Shiloh to Nashville and from Antietam to the Wilderness we were ready to cry 'Enough!' I understand it is used but sparingly in the kitchens of soldiers' homes. It will take another generation to rehabilitate this vegetable in the affection of the American people."—New York Mail and Express.

A Question of Grammar.

"Ain't you got any sense?" asked the 4-year-old daughter of the man who doesn't believe in corporal punishment. "Why, my dear," said the father reprovingly, "aren't you ashamed to talk to papa that way?"

"Excuse me, papa," she answered. "I meant to say isn't you got any sense?"—Indianapolis News.

Caused a Slight Family Jar.

"Maria, did you read about that Philadelphia woman who was cured of her mental troubles by fasting 45 days? I believe such a treatment would cure that unhappy temper of yours."

"Yes, it would make an angel of me. Is that what you would like, John Billings?"—Exchange.

Not a Hard Question.

They had a dispute, and they had agreed to leave it to the military expert.

"What bullet," they asked, "do you consider the deadliest?"

For several minutes he remained in a brown study. Then he looked up with the air of one who has settled the matter finally and definitely.

"The one that hits," he said. Chicago Post.

STRIKING A MATCH.

Showing How Little Things May at Times Decide a Man's Fortune.

The truth of the saying that little things may oftentimes play an important part to men's affairs when the men least expect it was illustrated one day recently.

"See that young man over there," remarked an insurance friend of his, pointing to one of his clerks working away industriously at a desk in another room. "Well, he got his place in my office through the striking of a match, although he doesn't know it."

"I was standing at the entrance of this building about a month ago waiting for a friend to come down the elevator, when that young man approached me with a letter of recommendation and an application for employment. I had made it known a few days before that I needed another clerk, and he had heard of it. However, I had almost made up my mind to take on a young man who had been to see me the day before and was about to tell the last applicant so, when he pulled a match from one of his pockets to light a cigar he had been smoking, but which had gone out."

"Sorry, sir," he said, balancing himself on one foot, while he lifted the other so as to admit of his striking the match on the heel of his shoe. 'Sorry, for I would like very much to work for you, and I think I would have made you a good clerk.'

"The match striking incident made me think so too. Right at the young man's elbow was a great Italian marble column upon which were the marks showing where many matches had been struck by vandals too utterly indifferent to the rights of others to refrain from indelibly stamping their vandalism upon property to restore which would have cost hundreds of dollars. It would have been the most natural thing in the world for many a man to have scratched that match on the marble column, and the fact that this young man chose to use the heel of his shoe instead showed that he was thoughtful and conscientious, two very excellent traits. I was so impressed that I told him to come and see me, and the result of the visit was his securing the position. And his month in my office has shown that I made no mistake in sizing him up."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

EXCHANGED OVERCOATS.

At First by Accident and Then to Rectify the Error.

"Queer things have happened to me in Chicago," said the rubber goods man, "but perhaps the queerest of all was the way I lost and found my overcoat last winter. It was all the fault of the check boy. He gave me out what I took to be my coat as I was ready to go to the depot. It fitted me all right, and so did the gloves in the pocket. It was not until I boarded the train that I found some letters which proved that I had the wrong coat. I had a lower berth for Detroit. The upper berth passenger came in after a bit, and as he sat down he said:

"Well, I thought I would get out of Chicago this time without anything happening, but I'm disappointed. Through some hocus pocus or other I've lost my overcoat—that is, I've made an exchange with some one."

"Just my case," I replied.

"Where did you stop?"

"At the Auditorium."

"So did I."

THE TRAIN SPOTTER.

AN OFFICIAL WHO IS WELL PAID BY THE RAILROADS.

The Work Which Is Performed by This Class of Detectives and the Qualities For Which It Calls—Methods of the Woman Spotter.

A little over three months ago there alighted from an Oakland ferryboat a demure little woman, who passed along with the crowd, with scarcely a glance to the right or left. Her petiteness attracted some attention and her modesty more, but no one who observed the air of confidence with which she made her way to the public carriage stand would have imagined that she was a stranger and that for the first time in her life she was visiting San Francisco.

Giving a few quiet directions and entering a cab, she was whirled away from the hustling throng and driven to a hotel. Later the register contained an unassuming "Miss Waller, Chicago." Her room was No. 11. Calling a private messenger, she dispatched a message to a firm of lawyers, and that evening, promptly at 8 o'clock, a prosperous looking, well dressed gentleman entered the hotel, glanced at the register, and, ignoring the clerk's question, "Do you want anything?" passed by the waiting elevator and walked up the stairs.

That was Tuesday evening. On Wednesday morning Miss Waller might have been seen boarding a Market street car bound for the ferry, where she purchased a train ticket and crossed to the mole. She returned late on Friday evening, and Saturday morning the same messenger took a sealed letter to the same lawyers, but this time there was no evening caller. Saturday evening she left town again for a few days, and these trips were continued until one day last week, when, by the merest chance, the object of her repeated outings was discovered. On this occasion she was the possessor of a ticket to a city near the Missouri river, and she smilingly confessed that she was bidding goodbye to San Francisco for some time to come.

As an illustration of the care which she must exercise in order to enhance her value to the big railway corporations in this country it is only necessary to state that in the ten years which she has devoted to the business of spotter, or, as she would probably prefer to have it called, private detective, she has doubtless made fewer friends than any one else in the country. And while she will not allow any one to get thoroughly acquainted with her, she does not make enemies. That would be ruinous.

It is an unwritten law of the railroads that every employee is open to suspicion until he has been proved guilty, and the people who take upon themselves the task of separating the two classes—those who are found guilty and those who are as yet merely under suspicion—are objects of the greatest contempt with the army of toilers who seek a living on the trains. To offset this unpopularity, however, they have the inducement of large financial returns. There is no ironbound rule governing the amount of money which they receive, but the more proficient of the class probably make from $2,500 to $3,000 a year.

At times a railroad will have an important case on its hand, and the services of a first class spotter will be invaluable to the company, and on such occasions, if successful, the financial returns increase wonderfully.

There is a much greater demand for this class of detectives in the east than there is here, and several reasons are given for this condition of affairs. In the first place, traffic being heavier, there are more trains run there, and more men are employed by the companies. Besides, that section is more thickly populated, and way trains are in many instances run hourly, if not oftener, but probably the truest cause for the increased dishonesty among railway conductors in the east is the low rate of salary which they receive.

There is a well defined belief among eastern men who travel extensively that any man who has reached that degree of prosperity where he can afford to wear creased trousers is hopelessly extravagant if he pay more than one-third fare after crossing the Mississippi river. I once heard a popular actor giving his reasons for this assertion in a resort on the Atlantic coast, and, after enlightening his audience with a dissertation on the almost utter worthlessness of money in the west, so far as railroad traveling was concerned, he continued:

"Take any train on any road west of Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago or St. Paul, and the rest is easy. Assume an air of indifference and smoke a cigar. If your conductor be seedy looking, have a beard, an old uniform with threadbare elbows and a hopeless expression on his face, pay your fare. He is an honest man. A thousand dollars wouldn't tempt him, and you are out a whole stack of dollars for getting on his train. Had you waited for the next one things would have been different. There you have a prosperous looking fellow, who spent his last hour before leaving time in a barber's chair and who, but for his uniform, would pass for a drummer or even a banker. He looks as well fed and as well groomed as a king, and you need have no fear that he will decline your invitation to divide the cost of your ride to your destination or at least to the end of his division."—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Parisian Way.

It must be hard for the untraveled Anglo-Saxon to grasp the idea that a poet can without loss of prestige recite his lines in a public cafe before a mixed audience. If such doubting souls could, however, be present at one of these noctes ambrosianae, they would quickly realize that the Latin temperament can throw a grace and childlike abandon around an act that would cause an Englishman or an American to appear supremely ridiculous. One's taste or sense of fitness is never shocked. It seems the most natural thing in the world to be sitting there with your glass of beer before you while some rising poet whose name ten years later may figure among the "Immortal Forty" recites to you his loves and his ambition or brings tears into your eyes with a description of some humble hero or martyr.—Elliot Gregory in Scribner's.

She Heard It.

The surprised choir had done its duty for the evening service. But all during the church hours there had been a peculiar sound outside as if a child were crying. In reality it was something the matter with the organ. It could be heard distinctly in the auditorium of the church. When the choir sang the recessional and marched slowly out of the church into the dressing rooms, one of the young ladies among the sopranos asked the woman who takes care of the robes:

"Did you hear that awful squeaking out here?"

"Yes, indeed, mum; I could almost understand the words."

And nothing more was said on the subject.—Detroit Free Press.

Soldiers Avoid the Bean.

"I have noticed," said the old soldier, "that there is one vegetable which the veterans of the civil war religiously avoid. That is the bean. It proved a very staying article, but after we had campaigned on it from Shiloh to Nashville and from Antietam to the Wilderness we were ready to cry 'Enough!' I understand it is used but sparingly in the kitchens of soldiers' homes. It will take another generation to rehabilitate this vegetable in the affection of the American people."—New York Mail and Express.

A Question of Grammar.

"Ain't you got any sense?" asked the 4-year-old daughter of the man who doesn't believe in corporal punishment. "Why, my dear," said the father reprovingly, "aren't you ashamed to talk to papa that way?"

"Excuse me, papa," she answered. "I meant to say isn't you got any sense?"—Indianapolis News.

Caused a Slight Family Jar.

"Maria, did you read about that Philadelphia woman who was cured of her mental troubles by fasting 45 days? I believe such a treatment would cure that unhappy temper of yours."

"Yes, it would make an angel of me. Is that what you would like, John Billings?"—Exchange.

Not a Hard Question.

They had a dispute, and they had agreed to leave it to the military expert.

"What bullet," they asked, "do you consider the deadliest?"

For several minutes he remained in a brown study. Then he looked up with the air of one who has settled the matter finally and definitely.

"The one that hits," he said. —Chicago Post.

STRIKING A MATCH.

Showing How Little Things May at Times Decide a Man's Fortune.

The truth of the saying that little things may oftentimes play an important part to men's affairs when the men least expect it was illustrated one day recently.

"See that young man over there," remarked an insurance friend of his, pointing to one of his clerks working away industriously at a desk in another room. "Well, he got his place in my office through the striking of a match, although he doesn't know it."

"I was standing at the entrance of this building about a month ago waiting for a friend to come down the elevator, when that young man approached me with a letter of recommendation and an application for employment. I had made it known a few days before that I needed another clerk, and he had heard of it. However, I had almost made up my mind to take on a young man who had been to see me the day before and was about to tell the last applicant so, when he pulled a match from one of his pockets to light a cigar he had been smoking, but which had gone out."

"Sorry, sir," he said, balancing himself on one foot, while he lifted the other so as to admit of his striking the match on the heel of his shoe. "Sorry, for I would like very much to work for you, and I think I would have made you a good clerk."

"The match striking incident made me think so too. Right at the young man's elbow was a great Italian marble column upon which were the marks showing where many matches had been struck by vandals too utterly indifferent to the rights of others to refrain from indelibly stamping their vandalism upon property to restore which would have cost hundreds of dollars. It would have been the most natural thing in the world for many a man to have scratched that match on the marble column, and the fact that this young man chose to use the heel of his shoe instead showed that he was thoughtful and conscientious, two very excellent traits. I was so impressed that I told him to come and see me, and the result of the visit was his securing the position. And his month in my office has shown that I made no mistake in sizing him up."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

EXCHANGED OVERCOATS.

At First by Accident and Then to Rectify the Error.

"Queer things have happened to me in Chicago," said the rubber goods man, "but perhaps the queerest of all was the way I lost and found my overcoat last winter. It was all the fault of the check boy. He gave me out what I took to be my coat as I was ready to go to the depot. It fitted me all right, and so did the gloves in the pocket. It was not until I boarded the train that I found some letters which proved that I had the wrong coat. I had a lower berth for Detroit. The upper berth passenger came in after a bit, and as he sat down he said:

"Well, I thought I would get out of Chicago this time without anything happening, but I'm disappointed. Through some hocus pocus or other I've lost my overcoat—that is, I've made an exchange with some one."

"Just my case," I replied.

"Where did you stop?"

"At the Auditorium."

"So did I."

"Well, he had my coat, and I had his," continued the rubber goods man, "and it took only a minute to effect the exchange. We were both bound for Detroit, both intended to put up at the same hotel and both had business with the same firm. It was a queer thing, taken all around, but, as I said at the beginning, there is no place like Chicago for surprises. A year ago I was hurrying along State street with the crowd when I ran plump into a man whom I had left for dead in Mexico three years before, and the first words he spoke was to tell me he was hard up and dun me for $5 I owed him!"—Washington Post.

A LUNATIC'S IMITATION.

It Lacked Finish and Got Himself and a Thief into Trouble.

A Paris correspondent tells an interesting story of how a shop thief was captured recently at the Bon Marche in circumstances that in all probability are unique. One of the private detectives in the pay of the establishment noticed a man who, with the most barefaced effrontery, was appropriating articles of every description. The individual indeed seemed to make little or no attempt to keep his operations secret. He simply walked from counter to counter and filled his pockets with whatever attracted his fancy.

In spite of the strangeness of the man's proceedings there was nothing to be done but to have him arrested, and he was given into custody. His indignation was extreme. He protested that it was most unjust that he should be interfered with in this way when other people who were behaving in exactly the same manner were left unmolested, and he pointed to a stout gentleman of most respectable appearance who he asserted had been laying his hands on all sorts of goods without resorting to the formality of paying for them.

The policeman to whom he had been given in charge had been accustomed to listening to unconvincing explanations and took his prisoner to the station. A few minutes later the stout gentleman, also in the care of a policeman, arrived at the same destination. The detective, whose curiosity had been aroused, had watched the personage and had found it to be true that he was perpetrating theft after theft with the utmost dexterity.

After a short investigation he was recognized to be an expert and notorious shoplifter, whereas the prisoner first arrested proved to be a lunatic but recently discharged from an asylum, whose mania took the form of imitating any person who might happen to strike him. The professional thief was beside himself with rage at what he described as the bad luck of getting into trouble through the vagaries of a madman.

GLASS BULB BOMBS.

Scared the Man Who Used Them, but Vanquished the Burglar.

"Of all the outlandish weapons ever employed in a fight," said a business man of the south side, "I think I brought the most fantastic on record into play one night last week. My family is away on a visit at present, and I am keeping bachelor hall out at the house. On the night to which I refer I was aroused at about 3 a. m. by a noise somewhere in the region of the dining room, and, thinking I had shut up the dog there, I jumped up very foolishly and came down stairs in my nightclothes without so much as a pocketknife.

"When I opened the dining room door, I was startled to see a big, rough looking man bending over the sideboard at the far end of the room, and after we had stood there en tableau for a moment the fellow made a rush at me. I leaped back into the hall and glared around for a weapon. On a table near by were a dozen incandescent light bulbs, which I had brought home to replace some that had burned out, and purely by instinct I grabbed one of them and threw it at the burglar. It hit the door casing close to his head and, to my amazement, exploded with a noise like a young lyddite shell.

"I suppose it was a still greater surprise to the other fellow, for he let out a yell and broke for the rear, followed by a rapid fire bombardment of 16 candle power incandescents, which I continued to chuck at him as long as he remained in range. They smashed against the furniture with a series of crashes that alarmed the whole neighborhood, and I have been gathering up fragments of broken glass ever since.

"The burglar must have thought I was chasing him with hand grenades. It was the first time I ever knew incandescents made such a row when they broke. An electrician tells me it is caused by the air rushing into the vacuum."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

His Useless Half Dime.

"It isn't safe to start out without a pocketful of pennies any more," remarked a member of the house the other day. "Yet I can remember that when I came down into this section of the country in army blue in 1863 a 5 cent piece was very small potatoes. I camped awhile out there in Virginia, and my headquarters were in the big plantation home. A son of the house and myself became good friends, although he was 5 and I nearly 35. One day in lieu of the candy which I had forgotten to bring him from the nearby town I gave him a silver half dime. I had forgotten all about the incident, when some two weeks later he came into my room and, opening his hand, held out to me on his little pink palm the silver piece I had given him. 'Heah, Mr. Captain, you can have it back,' he said plaintively. 'It won't buy nuffin.'—Washington Star.

Kaffirs Are Born Liars.

The Kaffir makes an interesting study. You cannot understand him all at once. It requires time, and a good deal of it. A new arrival thinks the Kaffir is a born prevaricator of the truth and has his reasons for so thinking.

Suppose you catch a "boy" committing a misdemeanor. Ask him what he has been doing, and he will look up in your face, a picture of innocence, and reply, "Ikona, baas"—a plump denial. Tell him you saw him do it, threaten him with punishment; he will still persist in maintaining his innocence. He will still plead ignorance of the misdeed and mutter in astonishment or fear, "Ikona, baas." In fact, he knows nothing whatever about it. If the offense be one that cannot be overlooked, you proceed to administer reproof—with the foot, if you are not particular and wish to be impressive. What does he do? If he is a raw "boy" and not used to it, he runs off with a terrified look on his face; if he is used to it, he retires precipitately with a satisfied smile, not necessarily because he has got the thrashing, but because he no longer has it to look forward to.

The only explanation for the systematic lying of the native in face of the most convincing proof is that the native mind is totally unable to form a conception of what we understand by truthfulness.—London Mail.

An "American" Duel.

During my residence in Heidelberg a lamentable and terrible affair took place that threw a profound gloom over the university and the entire town. Two German students, having quarreled, decided the earth was not large enough for both of them to live in and resorted to the diabolical practice called the "American duel."

In a darkened room the two young men drew lots, having sworn that he who drew the black ball would commit suicide. The unhappy loser went to his room and discharged a bullet into his breast, but missed his heart and lingered for several days on his death-bed. His parents were summoned by telegraph and besought him on their knees to disclose the name of his antagonist, but he steadfastly refused and died with the secret in his breast.

The students not only excused his conduct, but praised his courage, and when his remains were taken to the railway station to be transported to a distant city they accompanied the funeral cortege with torches and music. The students claimed he was not a suicide, for he was killed in an honorable duel, and they maintained that his opponent was not accessory to his death because he shot himself. I had many arguments with them and never could convince them of their extraordinary tergiversation.—Science.

Fooled the Crowd.

Some people will go to great trouble and expense to perpetrate a joke. The other day two well known society men hired a closed carriage and decorated it with bows of white ribbon and flowers and other paraphernalia belonging to a well appointed wedding.

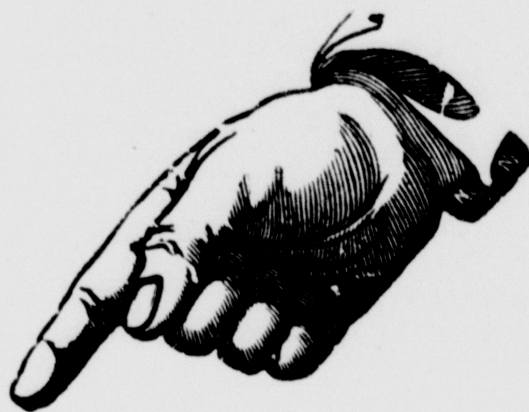

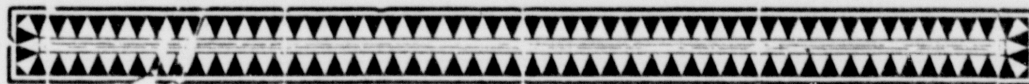

On each side was hung a placard announcing that the occupants were just married.

It attracted great attention, and when it pulled up in front of the Galt House a few days ago a large crowd had congregated to see the happy bride and groom alight. The driver slowly got down from his seat beside the door.

He opened it deliberately, and when he swung the door open the curious crowd surged forward. There was no bride and no groom inside, but instead a big placard bearing in great black letters the single word, "Rubber."

For a little while the driver had the joke to himself, but soon the crowd realized the neat swindle, and all enjoyed the episode hugely.—Louisville Dispatch.

JOHN S. WISE EXCLUDED.

Speaker Ordered Him Sent From the House—Another Democrat Unseated.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—For the second time within a week a Democrat was unseated by the house and a Republican seated in his place. R. A. Wise was given the seat hitherto occupied by W. A. Young from the Second Virginia district. Previous to taking the vote John S. Wise, of New York, who was formerly a member of the house from Virginia, and who is a brother of R. A. The Stag Beetle.

As you walk by the hedgeside a strange noise suddenly arrests your attention. It is the buzz of an insect, but loud enough to startle you. It might be mistaken for the reeling of a night jar, but it is perhaps more like the jarring hum of a fastly driven motor car.

The reason of the noise is that the beetle has with great pains climbed up a certain height from the ground, and in order to ascertain whether he has got far enough, he erects himself on his stand, lifts his wing cases, shakes out his wings and begins to agitate them violently, turning this way and that to make sure that he has a clear space.

If he then attempts to fly—it is one of his common blunders—he instantly strikes against some branch or cluster of leaves and is thrown down. The tumble does not hurt him in the least, but so greatly astonishes him that he remains motionless a good while; then, recovering his senses, he begins to ascend again. At length, after a good many accidents and adventures by the way, he gets on to the topmost twig, and, after some buzzing to get up steam, launches himself heavily on the air and goes away in grand style!—Longman's.

Looking Out For Alma Mater.

No doubt the casual observer has often noticed how unceasingly bequests flow into the treasuries of certain universities, but he may not know that the alumni of those institutions, particularly the lawyers, have it always on their minds to secure, or at least to suggest, bequests.

One of these men, a prominent corporation lawyer of this city, was speaking of the custom the other day. He explained that a lawyer and his client usually sit down to talk over the general subject of a will. If the client has more than enough money to meet the actual needs of his family, he commonly says something of charitable or educational institutions, generally in a vague way, which makes it quite natural for his lawyer to suggest as a definite object his own alma mater. The lawyer referred to had himself secured several bequests, one of them for the sum of $500,000. "But," said he, smiling, "a young lawyer in my office has just cut me out of $100,000, which he put in a will for his own alma mater. It was a very good stroke on his part, the more so because our respective universities have been bitter athletic rivals for years."—New York Mail and Express.

Speculators Apparently Convinced That New Currency Law Will Help Money Market.

NEW YORK, March 13.—The stock market was unmistakably strong throughout, on Monday. The demonstrated indifference of the market on Saturday to the swift depletion of surplus reserves of New York banks took the mainstay of the bears from beneath them. The demand from short interest was a factor in the advance in prices, especially in the industrials, which have recently been under pressure. There were several elements of positive strength in the market, also; but the largest part of the buying was undoubtedly due to the effort of the professional element among the speculators to discount the effect of the currency bill. Not only the smaller class of professionals, who have recently had the market to themselves, but operators of larger mould, gave evidence of their interest in the market.

The demands made by the increased activity of the stock market upon the money market was evinced in a flurry in the call loan rate to 6 per cent. The speculators paid no attention to this admonitory symptom, apparently convinced that the end of the money market troubles was at hand with the enactment of the new currency law, which is to be sent to the president today. There were occasional periods of dullness in the market, apparently with a view to testing it. The quick subsidence of activity without any reaction in prices, and the firmness of the resistance to decline, confirmed the confidence of the bulls and started prices upward again. The closing was quite active and strong at near the top level.

The bond market was active and strong throughout. Total sales, par value, $2,205,000.

United States 3's coupon and new 4's registered declined $\frac{1}{2}$, coupon, $\frac{3}{8}$, and the old 4's $\frac{1}{4}$ in the bid price.

Chicago Grain Market.

CHICAGO, March 13.—Sensationally strong and active, the result not only of particularly bullish statistics Monday, but of a sort of spontaneous realization of the security of the bull position based on the career of the market for months; corn lent a bull influence to the other markets Monday. Corn closed $\frac{1}{8}$ over Saturday. May wheat $\frac{3}{8}$ higher, May oats $\frac{1}{2}$ @ $\frac{3}{4}$ improved and provisions from $\frac{7}{8}$ @ better for lard to $22\frac{1}{2}$ @ for pork.

ADVANCE OF LORD ROBERTS

May Reach Bloemfontein Tomorrow Danger of French Invading England.

LONDON, March 13.—Spenser Wilkin son, reviewing the military situation in The Morning Post, said in part:

"It may be confidently expected that Lord Roberts will reach Bloemfontein or the railway near there by tomorrow (Wednesday) or Thursday.

"With regard to the alarm expressed in some quarters as to French invasion based on the news that the French are manœuvring four army corps this year near the northwestern coast of France such a possibility, no doubt always exists. The great thing is to have our fleet in the right place.

"Certainly there is no reason for apprehension."

Roberts has again turned the Boer position and with his entire force, which must comprise close on 40,000 men, is now at Venters Vlei, 12 miles southwest of Bloemfontein. The Boers, who are said to have numbered 12,000, with 18 guns, were entrenched along the main road to the Free State capital, but the British, by keeping to the south and following Kaal Spruit instead of the Modder have flanked them.
